Foreword

The chronicle of a college year is at best a poor effort at portraying the real college spirit, but we have attempted to throw some light on every phase of our college life. We have endeavored to catch the Westminster spirit of 1922-23 and pass it on to you. We have tried to preserve in this book memories of a few events, a few victories, a few cases, a few defeats, and a few joys. It can be only a dash of passing pageantry.

If the contents of this book bring back to those who have been Westminster students fond memories of the past and afford you many an hour of entertainment, and give to those who have not been Westminster students some idea of our college life, we feel that we have accomplished our purpose.

WESTMINSTER
The College

The Founding of Westminster

Westminster College came into existence in 1852. To Rev. George C. Vincent, D. D., belongs the credit of projecting it. Several places competed for the location of the new institution, New Wilmington winning the prize through the energy of a few of the citizens of the community. It was placed under the care of twelve persons, six each chosen by the Presbyteries of Shenango and Ohio of the Associate Presbyterian Church. In 1859 the Board of Directors was enlarged, and the appointment of its twenty-four members was committed to the First Synod of the West of the United Presbyterian Church. In 1872 the Synod of Pittsburgh was associated with the First Synod of the West in the control of the college, twelve members of the Board to be appointed by each. Within recent years, the alumni have been given representation in the board by eight members additional, and the Board itself has been given power to add eight more, making a total membership of forty.

The successive presidents of the Board include the following names: David Goodwillie, Joseph McClintock, Samuel Alexander, D. H. A. McLean, Joseph Pressly, David R. Kerr, R. B. Ewing, E. N. McElree, and John S. McKee; the office being held for quite long periods by Drs. McLean, Pressly, and Kerr.

The college was born in due time. The men who founded it were wise to discern the need of the time and the future. It provided the opportunity of education for both sexes for a large scope of country that was bottled by Presbyterians of various hues—Seceders and Covenanters and Old School. It had immediate success, students flocking in from all sides. The little building in which it began in the spring of 1852, soon became too small for the accommodation of its classes. In some of the earlier years of its existence, the aggregate enrollment was as great as it has been at any time since.

It commanded respect and confidence by the ability and the character of the men who were set over it. They were men of strong intellect and resolute purpose, and they made great sacrifices that they might establish and promote the institution that was dear to them as an instrument of service to Christ and His Church.

Rev. Dr. Owens, speaking in 1894 on "The Progress of Wesminster in Recent Years," pays this brief tribute to the men of his day as a student: "Comparing the faculty of today with that of say thirty years ago, we find an increase of members and an advance in methods of instruction. Yet to say we have lost nothing in the character and quality of our teachers, is to pay a very high compliment to those who fill the chairs. Such men as Drs. James Patterson, George C. Vincent, William Findley, Wm. A. Mehard, Andrew Black, Prof. J. B. Cummings, are not often equalled and seldom surpassed."

The fruit of the labors of these men is seen in the cultivated intellect, lofty purpose and large usefulness of her long and honorable roll of graduates. In several churches and in many countries they serve God in the ministry. They are found in Egypt and India, in China, Siam, and Persia. In all parts of our country they occupy positions of importance—in education, in business, in law and medicine. They are judges and bankers and editors—men of influence.

Especially are they found in the ranks of the ministry and laity of the United Presbyterian Church, which established it to provide educated young men for her ministry and educated men and women for her service in the churches.

President W. Charles Wallace, D. D.

The Future of Westminster

THE ARGO staff has opened before me an inviting door and crowned the executive with a coveted distinction in classifying him with those who "see visions." For Westminster I see a vision of a future in which even now a "rosy-fingered dawn" is gilding the emerging hill-tops with the traceries of light.

The future of the College, which I see, will be builded worthily of the past and the present because the builders whom I see fabricating the structure were long ago described for me:

"Men my brethren, men the workers, ever reaping something new—
That which they have done but earnest of the things that they shall do."

With a faculty of scholars, expert in specialty, co-operative, sympathetic, Christian; with a student body enthusiastic, earnest, loyal to the core, with a vision which is sweeping the fields of art, of literature, of science, of social life and politics "with the searching scrutiny of an unsullied sincerity;" encouraged by an Alumni Body every day in every way becoming better and better in interest, in loyalty and in resourcefulness, all guided by a Board of Trustees ever planning for enlargement, development and efficiency,—how fascinating becomes the "vision splendid" of the future of Westminster!

High and exacting standards of scholarship and character, demanded and provided for by the Board; maintained and fostered by the Faculty, and increasingly delivered by a Student Body of superior excellence, are developing those builders of the future who cannot fail to maintain Westminster with her traditions "majestic, crowned with everlasting light."

Southward from "Old Main" upon the New Campus the Board has seen a vision of buildings of beauty and convenience; upon her athletic fields and floors the Alumni see visions of victories achieved by the co-operation of us all in a program of genuine physical education; within her halls of learning the Faculty see a revival of the desire for those disciplines achieved only by an address to the college curriculum.

And as I observe the Student Body of the present year, my heart warms within me as I look toward the future. For I believe in the contagion of loyalty, confidence, co-operation and devotion. Never was the present group of students surpassed in these attitudes toward the College. None was ever assembled who could more truly sing:

How faint or fall or yield, whate'er withstand us
Thy presence in a heart, a holy fire.
Youngest of all Thy sons, we hail and greet Thee,
With all our lives, for service in Thy sight!

With these attitudes of the youngest of all her sons becoming truly contagious, all her sons and daughters, scattered far and near upon seats of strategy, shall rise up and call her blessed,

"Our Alma Mater, glorious, grand and true!"

Robert Gracey Ferguson, D. D., LL. D.,
Professor Emeritus of Biblical Literature

Westminster Spirit

Long years ago in Pennsylvania's hills,
There lived a youth with mind and spirit free,
Aspiring, yearning to do noble deeds,
To give his life in service to the world,
To do his part in God's eternal plan.
And ever at his tasks or at his play,
A strain of music sang itself into
His heart—a song his mother oft had sung,
A song his elder brother used to love:
And as he joined his voice in childish treble,
The lad oft wondered what the words might mean—

"It's the old Westminster spirit,
And it's good enough for me."

Years pass. The youth has left his father's home
And come to Fair Westminster's halls that he
May sit at Alma Mater's feet and learn,
That he may mingle with Westminster's sons
And daughters, and that he himself may know
The meaning of the words he oft had sung—
"Westminster spirit.....good enough for me."

Four busy, happy years pass swiftly by,
Four years of growth of body, mind, and soul.
Each day adds force and power to his will:
Through difficulties met and overcome,
He gathers strength for life's great battlefield.
But best of all, there burns within his soul
Westminster's spirit, lo, 'a holy fire.'
Westminster spirit, this it means to him—
Good Will toward all beneath the White and Blue,
Good Will and Friendship for all noble hearts,
Good Will and Friendship over all God's world.
Westminster spirit, this it means to him—
Self-sacrifice, when Duty's stern voice calls
To lands afar to spread the Gospel's light.
Service—this it means, at home, abroad,
A life of Service given to the world.
Westminster spirit, this it means to him—
Determination and the Will To Do,
To strive, to fight, although the day seems lost.
To Alma Mater thus he lifts his voice:
"How can we falter, then, if thou command us?
How can we fear, if thou dost us inspire?"
Thus guided by her voice he presses on
And wins the battle for the cause of Right.
Westminster spirit—this at last it means—
Devotion to the banner, White and Blue,
A heart filled full of Loyalty and Love
To old Westminster for her gifts to him,
A Love that guards and honors her fair name,
The richest gem between the Earth and Heaven.

Bright college days are past, and now the youth,
In spirit, courage, years, has grown a man.
Though college days are o'er, there is a life
To live. The campus bounds expand until
They reach the farthest regions of the earth:
And lo! Westminster's spirit still pervades
Them all. It glows, and lightens all the world;
It reigns in hearts of true men everywhere.
High in the heavens on a field of blue
Hang soft and massy clouds of fleecy white;
Westminster's banner cheers each loyal heart.
The man who, as a youth, once yearned to know
The meaning of the song his mother sang,
Has learned it fully. The spirit of Westminster
Inspires his life. In days of toil and care,
This selfsame spirit helps him to be strong:
In every troublous hour of stress and strife,
This spirit gives him courage to endure,
To struggle on till victory is won.

Thus daily, through a long and noble life,
The spirit of Westminster blesses him—
Bestows a benediction through the years.
And as life's shadows lengthen toward the grave,
He thinks again of the song his mother sang,
And lifts his trembling voice in gratitude:

"It's the old Westminster spirit,
It's the old Westminster spirit,
It's the old Westminster spirit,
And it's good enough for me."

The Passing Show of 1923 Depicted in Prose

How time flies. It seems but a fortnight ago that we invaded for the first time the quaint old village of New Wilmington. And now here we are on the last lap of our college course, and in a few short days the fame of this illustrious class of '23 will have to be recorded in the history of Westminster's "Hasbeens." What would we not give if we could but turn back the universe and live the past four years over again? But unluckily our education has not endowed us with that power; so we must content ourselves with only their memory.

As we now turn our memories back we recall our first years here at Westminster, days when we were busily engaged in class scraps, football, basketball, and forensic contests. Of course we were victorious for the most part, but whenever forced to taste defeat we did not become discouraged but rather made our defeats serve as an inspiration for further efforts. We also recall the friendships formed during those first two years. We shall always think of our professors and teachers of those early days as our friends. Then came the reconstruction and we were forced to adapt ourselves to a new situation. It was not easy for us to meet the new requirements but without a murmur we set ourselves to the task.

And now it is with a sincere love for Westminster that we leave her sacred halls to take up the tremendous responsibilities of trying to make the world a better place to live in. And as we pass out our last word to you who remain is "Carry On."

The Side Show

In the fall of 1920, the class of '24, one of the largest in the history of the college, came on the campus of Westminster and prepared to make a name for itself as well as to support the ideals and traditions of the college.

We scored our first success over the Sophomores by removing all of their posters but were later defeated in the flag rush. The Freshman-Sophomore football game resulted in a tie. Later, they defeated us in debate. The inter-class basketball season ended in a tie. In the spring we were more fortunate and won both the tug-of-war and the inter-class track meet.

The next fall we found our numbers somewhat diminished but we more than made up for the loss by our increased class and college spirit. We won both the flag rush and the football game from the Freshmen. Later in the year our debate team defeated the Freshmen. Again the inter-class basketball season ended in a tie.

We returned as Juniors in the fall of 1922 determined to make the year the best of the first three. The Hallowe'en party and the Junior play were two big events of the year. The Argo afforded many hours of hard work for us.

Before us there is one more year in which to do our best for our class and especially for our college. Already we have done a great deal for both, on the platform, on the athletic field, and in the class-room. Our greatest ambition is to make our Alma Mater proud of us, and to this end we will bend the efforts of our last year at Westminster.

Gee! you ought to see his hair curl.

Dorothy B. French - - - - Sharpsburg

Phi Theta Pi; Basketball Squad (2); Varsity Basketball Manager (2); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (1) (2) (3); Sophomore Class Secretary; Glee Club (3); Oratorio Society (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (3); Girls' Varsity Debate (3); Upperclass Committee (3).

She has a mind of her own—but not a heart.

We don't know her nationality but on the way to Allegheny she acted like a Laplander.

Says that she is going to be married quietly—a lull before the storm as it were.

May you be as successful in life as you have been in college, Dot.

REBECCA E. GIBSON - - - North Braddock

Sigma Phi Delta; Le Cercle Francais; Glee Club (3); Chapel Chorus (3); Oratorio Society (3).

Wishes she was a flower so she could stay in bed all day.

One of the musically inclined—but which way?

The bane of a proctor's life.

Well acquainted with the Hillside kitchen.

Good-natured, big-hearted, Becky is a loyal friend.

CORNELIA J. GILKEY - - - - New Castle

Phi Theta Pi; Basketball Squad (2); Assistant Manager Basketball (3); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (3); Campus Committee (2); Le Cercle Francais; Argo Staff; Glee Club (2) (3); Oratorio Society (2) (3).

"Oh dear, I wonder where I dropped my Hankey?"

Cornelia has gained numerous friends and several pounds since entering college—and recently her heart has been expanding accordingly.

She has almost reached that stage which might be termed perpetual motion.

She is a good friend to everyone.

HAMILTON GILLESPIE - - - - - Erie

Kappi Phi Lambda; Argo Staff; Holcad Staff (1) (2); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3).

And they shoot men like Lincoln

Keeps his donation to church secret—writes anonymous checks.

Says love is energy gone to waist.

Has a good line—could buy something from a Jew and sell it to a Scotchman at a profit.

His idea of an agreeable person is one who agrees with him.

JANE GILLILAND - - - - - - - Sharon

Just Bobbie.

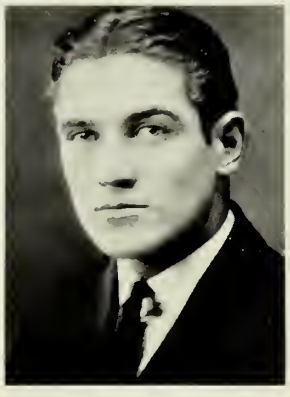
One of the "roses of Sharon."

Did you ever hear the story of a certain little girl? When she was good she was very good, and when she was bad she was—popular.

An inveterate asker of foolish questions.

Says she's crazy to ride in an airplane—we agree.

Pep and Bobbie always go together.



JOHN A. HUNTER - - - West Middlesex

Crescent Club; Argo Staff; Football Squad (3); Class Football (1) (2); Class Track (1) (2); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (1) (2) (3); Le Cercle Francais.

A train of thought passed thru his head and wrecked it.

Learned one thing last year—tried to take spots out of his white pants with sulphuric acid.

Day by day, in every way, he's betting better and better.

"For every why he hath a wherefore."

His good humor is enviable.

JAMES Y. JACKSON - - - - - Apollo

Pi Rho Phi; Class Basketball (2) (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (1) (2) (3); Le Cercle Francais (1); Holcad Staff (3); Hand Book Committee (2); Sophomore Class President; Glee Club (1) (2); Men's Quartet (2), (3); Mixed Quartet (2) (3); Assistant Librarian (2) (3); Student Council Treasurer (2); Treasurer Student Friendship Fund (2); Inter-Fraternity Council (2); Chapel Chorus (1) (2) (3).

Talks like a train-caller in the Union Station.

Instrumental in college affairs—plays piano in chapel.

Dependable—that's Jackson.

Edward F. Jerrow - - - - - Enon Valley

Delta Phi Sigma; Class Basketball (1) (2) (3); Class Track (1) (2); Class Football (2); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (2) (3); Treasurer Le Cercle Francais (3); Argo Staff; Handbook Committee (2); Junior Play.

Sweetly serious.

No man can be infallible, even the prophets married.

Jerry has given up the idea of raising a moustache because the last time he bade his lady "Good Night," she was chewing gum and—.

He began his college life a Hub—and ended it a Hubby.

Agnes Johnston - - - - - - - Wilpen

Assistant Librarian (2).

Turned out by Indiana State Normal—don't ask us why. The better you know her the better you like her.

"The inner half of every cloud
Is bright and shining,
I therefore turn my clouds about
And always wear them inside out,
To show the lining."

A loyal friend.

F. Wayland Lenox - - - - - Coraopolis

Pi Rho Phi; Football Squad (1); Varsity Football (2); Class Basketball (1) (2); Holcad Staff (3); Varsity Baseball (1).

The original Lenox Suds.

The only member of the class so far who has had the distinction of wearing a "straight jacket."

He's like Pittsburgh onions—he's so big and strong.

"Suds" came to us as an athlete and stayed as a student.

JOHN C. LEONARD - - - - - New Castle

Delta Phi Sigma; Assistant Manager Basketball (3); Class Basketball (3); Intramural Council; Laboratory Assistant (3).

Dumb-bell—tho't Old Main was a water pipe.

Judging from the color of his nose he's an Indian.

Says that the girl who is looking for a husband with no bad habits had better look in the cemetery.

Leaves the women alone and plays a lone game.

"The world's no better if we worry,
Life's no longer if we hurry."

W. GLENN LOCKHART - - - New Castle

Pi Rho Phi; College Orchestra (1) (2); Debate Squad (2); Assistant Baseball Manager (2); Class Track (2); Holcad Staff (2).

Smooth Egg.

One of the best men Amherst ever turned out.

Got a bad fall when he was a mere child and has been a little off ever since—he would make a good debater.

Gets away strong with the Profs.

LOIS LOGAN - - - - - - - - Bellevue

Varsity Basketball (1) (2) (3); Captain (2); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (1) (2) (3); Student Council Committee (2); Glee Club (1) (2); Oratorio Society (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (1) (2); Treasurer Y. W. C. A. (3).

Good as a Vic when you get her wound up.

"By Jim-iny, I wish it would snow."

Someday she will tell some man how big a fish he is.

Can be relied upon to stick out to the end whatever she attempts.

GILBERT E. LONG - - - - - New Castle

Delta Phi Sigma; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3); Holcad Staff (3); Inter-Fraternity Council (3).

He's figured that if three thousand miles of Gillette blades were laid end to end they would reach from New York to San Francisco.

Long, elegant, and needs shaving.

Used to think that "flag rushes" grew along the creek.

A red-head—has an iron will, but it must have started to rust—iron will, you know.

"Red" is a good friend in need.

JOHN W. MACLEAN - - Buffalo, New York

Pi Rho Phi; Cheerleader (2) (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (1) (2) (3); Upperclass Committee (3); Argo Staff; Junior Play; Glee Club (2) (3); Oratorio Society (2) (3); Inter-Fraternity Council (2).

Pretty Hair.

Buffalo didn't disappoint us this time.

Mac says his marks are lower than the Germans.

He thinks the Y cabinet is a piece of furniture.

He certainly knows how to cheer people up.

ANNA MALONE - - - - - - Washington

Le Cercle Francais

Says that the man to marry is not the one you can't be happy without but the one you can be happy with or without.

Thinks Homer is the guy Babe Ruth made famous.

Some day she'll talk herself to death.

One of our Biology sharks; some day will catch some poor fish for life study.

Anna came to us from Muskingum—she showed great wisdom.

Ethel N. McClelland - - - - - Mercer

Campus Committee (3); Le Cercle Francais; Glee Club (1) (2) (3); Oratorio Society (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (1) (2) (3); Secretary Student Volunteer Group (2); Sec. and Prayer Cycle Sec. of Western Pennsylvania Student Volunteers (3).

Wonders at what age the faculty will allow a girl of eighteen to go out unchaperoned.

Says that limits aren't any fun, but it's almost worth limits to experience getting off.

"Long before this lass could walk,
I do believe that she could talk."

Margaret M. McClure - - - Blairsville

Chairman Student Volunteers (3); Campus Committee (3); Le Cercle Francais; Glee Club (1) (3); Oratorio Society (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (3); Holcad Staff (2); Argo Staff; Council Member of Student Volunteer Union.

Peg is a good leader—Look how John follows.

We prophesy that her teaching career will be short.

It is really true that red hair attracts friends. It's just a part of her, don't you know?

Ruth McConnell - - - - - - Mercer

Phi Theta Pi; Glee Club (1) (2) (3); Oratorio Society (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (3); Le Cercle Francais.

Taking a heavy course in Bible—studying Samuel quite intensively.

Wished on us by Mercer—what a wish!

Believes that if you put in 60% of your time attending to your own business and the other 40% in letting other people's alone, you'll get in but darn little trouble.

William McCreery - - - - - Blairsville

Crescent Club; Argo Staff; Le Cercle Francais.

He may be a big gun in school but it's a blamed small report that ever goes home.

Bill is clever with his pen and pencil. If you don't believe it look through the pages of this book.

He can't dance but he can hold them while they dance.

Musically unbalanced—looks like Beethoven and plays like—.

Marilla McDowell - - - - - - Mercer

Le Cercle Francais.

Favorite expression, "Moustaches are such distasteful things."

Thinks that laundry drivers get high wages because they wear silk shirts.

She looks so meek and is not meek at all.

Thinks it great to have a friend you can trust—specially if the friend doesn't ask you to trust him.

She looks good natured at a sour world.

Hazel McGill - - - - - - Pittsburgh

Student Volunteer; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (3); Glee Club (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (1) (2) (3); Oratorio Society (2) (3); Mixed Quartet (3); Campus Committee (2).

She would never think of marrying, but then she often does things without thinking.

In the after world Aeneas will look at Hazel and forget there ever was a Dido.

She will make a good minister's wife.

"She's all my fancy painted her,
She's lovely, she's divine."

ARTHUR MECHLEM - - - - - - Rochester

Crescent Club; Glee Club (1) (2) (3); Glee Club Accompanist (1).

Rather lack-si-das-i-cal.

"Mec" can play the piano all right. We're bound to hand him that.

He doesn't talk much, but it's a question whether the silence is golden or ivory.

A quiet little fellow.

DALE MITCHELL - - - - - - New Castle

Pi Rho Phi; Glee Club (1).

Says he's going to wear clothes to match his hair until he gets bald-headed.

Voice needs put on file.

Dr. Quick asked him if trees contributed to the heat of the atmosphere. Dale said, "Yes, sir, the birch has warmed me many times."

Women always fall for him,—they have to—he's so short.

"Handsome is as handsome does."

MARION MORRISON - - - New Wilmington

Student Volunteer; Argo Staff.

Known to the Crescent gang as "Bud."

The love knots seem to be intangibly tangled.

She is surely some cook.

Ray is a lucky fellow, and we don't blame him a bit.

William B. Murdoch - - - - Canonsburg

Crescent Club; Junior Play; Inter-Fraternity Council (3).

The man that put the twinkle in the stars, brushed the cobwebs off the moon, discovered the laws of gravitation, and enunciated the molecular theory of concomitant incompatibility.

Bill Kus, Ruth Klux, some Klan.

He has never quite got over the innocence of his Freshman year.

"A rare compound of jollity, frolic and fun,
Who relished a joke and rejoiced in a pun."

John C. Nevin - - - - - - Homestead

Pi Rho Phi; Baseball Manager (2); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3); Le Cercle Francais; Junior Play; Laboratory Assistant (3); Class Basketball (2) (3).

Pretty big boy.

Shaves with a brush.

Stays behind in his studies so he can pursue them.

So small he can't get into the "movies" without a parent.

John has a whole lot of friends on the Campus.

Mary Z. North - - - - - - Blairsville

Delta Tau; Basketball Squad (2) (3); Y. W. C. A. Cabinet (1) (2) (3); Student Council (3); Campus Committee (2); Le Cercle Francais; Glee Club (1) (2) (3); Oratorio Society (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (2) (3).

She reads deep stuff—says light literature is seldom illuminating.

Attractive—you bet! You stop, you look—the man that marries her will listen.

She's like an Eskimo pie—uncertain.

Happy faculty of pouring oil on troubled waters.

FRANCELIA OSBURN - - - - - - Braeburn

Sigma Phi Delta; Le Cercle Francais; Glee Club (3); Oratorio Society (3).

"She's got style all the while."

Certainly is grouchy—sits on every man she gets a chance.

Mighty good student in her way and she weighs quite a lot.

Swears she won't change her name on any man's account unless the account's big enough.

HARRIE E. PARKER - - - - - New Castle

Town Girls' Club; Varsity Debate Squad (2).

Always breaking into song—wish some one would give her the key.

She's so good natured that Harrie and cheerfulness are synonomous.

Says shingles first came into use when she was five or six years old.

"Of all the treasures I fain would see
A tiny ring is the thing for me."

MYRTLE R. PEACOCK - - - - - Hickory

Phi Theta Pi; Le Cercle Francais; Junior Class Secretary.

"I'll write and I'll talk as long as I can
And never say 'Yes' to any man."

In spite of her name she has proved impervious to the arts and darts of Dan Cupid.

Do you want something done? Ask Myrtle.

Lester M. Petrie - - Washington, D. C.

Crescent Club; Student Volunteer; Class Football (1) (2).

Wouldn't dare go down town with his fists in his pockets for fear they would arrest him for carrying concealed weapons.

He says deep breathing will kill microbes—but how are you going to make them breath deeply?

A woman is only a woman but the Dean of Women is too much for Pete.

Pete intends to study medicine and some day carry healing to the heathen of Africa.

Clarence Randall - - Shushan, New York

Kappa Phi Lambda; Class Football (1); Football Squad (2); Varsity Football (3); Varsity Basketball (1) (2) (3); Varsity Baseball (2).

L. L. D.—Long lean devil.

You can't train him—the train's gone.

He's the center of interest on the basketball floor.

An all around athlete.

From the wilds of New York.

Ruth Robinson - - - - Struthers, Ohio

Glee Club (2) (3); Oratorio Society (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (3).

Absent-minded she thought she left her watch at home and then she looked at it to see if she had time to go back and get it.

She thinks "Violet ray" is an actress.

She shall marry early, from a sheer desire to change her name.

When it comes to kidding—watch Ruth.

"She had no wish but be glad,
She hated not to be sad."

EARL C. RUBY - - - - - - New Castle

Delta Phi Sigma; Class Football (2); Le Cercle Francais.

"He's a jewel."—Miss Allison.

Used to live in New Castle and come out for classes—he stays out now, but not for classes.

He's a great Ford man—always rattling right along.

NAOMI SCHNUTH - - - - - - McDonald

Le Cercle Francais

Lady of Mystery.

You can usually tell who she is thinking about.

Can't pronounce her own name but says that she is going to make one for herself as soon as Brown graduates.

Usually in a Brown study.

GLADYS SHOTT - - - - - New Wilmington

Town Girls' Club

Has an intellectual countenance.

A good Shott—with a line to the profs.

She never lets the side show interfere with the main circus.

"Her tongue ceaseth never,
Men may come and men may go,
But it goes on forever."

Gladys is a thorough student and we are glad she belongs to '24.

Mary Belle Simpson - - - - - Indiana

Phi Theta Pi; Le Cercle Francais; Handbook Committee (1); Girls' Glee Club (1).

The Other Simpson Sister.

Says she's boss of the family—(Refer to Ruth.)

A Democrat in politics—the kind that walks with you on the street and tells you afterwards that she is not ashamed to be seen with anybody.

We will admit that we can't tell her from the other one except when McCune is around.

We are all glad that she chose Westminster for her Alma Mater.

Ruth Simpson - - - - - - - Indiana

Phi Theta Pi; Varsity Debate (1); Campus Committee (3); Le Cercle Francais.

One of the "Simps."

Says she's boss of the family. (Refer to Mary Belle.)

One of our misled number who have an interest in Muskingum. At least he hasn't been put out at this time of writing.

Has the language prerequisites for running a New York shine-parlor.

If you're feeling blue and need a tonic—see Ruth.

T. Clifford Strangeway - Walton, New York

Crescent Club; Varsity Debate (1) (2) (3); Secretary-Treasurer Tau Kappa Alpha (3); Freshman-Sophomore Debate (1) (2); Class Track Team (1); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (1) (2) (3); Treasurer Y. M. C. A. (3); Student Volunteer; Dramatic Club (2) (3); Holcad Staff (1) (2) (3); Argo Staff; Handbook Committee (2); Freshman Class Treasurer; Junior Play; Assistant Librarian (2) (3); Secretary Western Pennsylvania Debate League (2).

Youthful Adonis—Sun-kist complexion, also light-headed.

Likes all wild animals but prefers "Bunnies."

Can't argue with him, he's too well trained.

RUTH THOMPSON - - - - - - Parnassus

Sigma Phi Delta; Le Cercle Francais.

Sun-kist complexion.

"This is a terrible world, but I guess it's the best we've got."

Cheer up, Ruth, you'll find the right man some day.

Great dramatic student—played the part of "Opportunity" in several "Midsummer Night's Dreams" but no one embraced her.

HELEN L. THORNTON - - - - - Duquesne

Phi Theta Pi; Basketball Squad (2) (3); Assistant Manager (3); Le Cercle Francais; Handbook Committee (1); Junior Play; Argo Staff.

Her course of true love never did run smoothly.

Here's one who's always up and doing.

This girl had all her nine lives compacted into one. Jupiter! but she is life itself.

"A girl who has so many pleasing ways."

RAYMOND THORNTON - - - - - Duquesne

Class Football (1) (2); Football Squad (1) (3); Men's Quartet (2); Mixed Quartet (2); Glee Club (1) (2) (3); Le Cercle Francais.

A big man.

Weighs more than he did—he did weigh nine and a half pounds.

Says it's a violation of the laws of Nature to shave—believes that every little things should take its course.

A regular Caruso.

ETHEL TRACY - - - - - - - Ford City

Varsity Debate (1) (2) (3); Junior Play; Vice-President Debate Organization (2) (3).

"She need not cram for any exam,
It's all locked away in her head."

"Day by day in every weigh I'm getting thinner and thinner."

Her laugh is the month's cure for the blues.

Ethel will make life miserable for some man—she's on the debate team.

FERDIMORE E. VOGAN - - - Sandy Lake

Kappa Phi Lambda; Class Football (1) (2); Class Basketball (1) (3); Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (3); Vice-President Le Cercle Francais (2); Argo Staff; Sophomore Class Treasurer; Junior Class President; Junior Play; Treasurer Student Council (3).

Our President.

Lies longer in bed than any other member of the class.

He's been a big brother to one "little sister."

"Ferdy" is a good fellow, and we're glad that he belongs to the Class of 1924.

MARTHA WEINGARTNER - - - New Castle

Delta Tau; House President (3); Campus Committee (3); Le Cercle Francais; Glee Club (1) (2) (3); Oratorio Society (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (2) (3).

Says she learned to play entirely by ear, yet she's never had an ear-ache.

Stands at the desk at six minutes after ten and makes two strokes with the black pencil after your name.

Martha runs the "limited."

She last of all would think about herself.

RUSSELL WELLER - - - - - - Mercer

Kappa Phi Lambda; Varsity Track Manager (3); Class Basketball (1) (2) (3); Class Football (1) (2).

Perfectly proper.

Stands for what he thinks the girls will fall for.

Rolls his own.

Studied a week and a half some time in the later part of the second semester of his Sophomore year.

You can't help rather liking him.

ELIZBETH S. WHITE - - - - - Pittsburgh

Student Volunteer; Le Cercle Francais; Argo Staff; Freshman Class Secretary; Junior Play; Glee Club (1) (2), Pres. (3); Oratorio Society (1) (2) (3); Chapel Chorus (1) (2) (3).

Our Beth never gets excited,
No matter what comes to pass;
To eat candy she's delighted;
As an artist she is classed.

Our star actress.

Not at all a believer in single-blessedness.

Hopes to have a home in the Valley of the Nile.

DOROTHY B. WILSON - - - - Dravosburg

Phi Theta Pi; Junior Class Vice-President; Le Cercle Francais.

You can't judge a book by its cover.

Stands firm for principle but changes them every two weeks.

She didn't believe in co-education—she was too particular.

And now she's singing "Polly Wolly Doodle, all the day."

Dot always wears a smile, even to Dr. Garwood's classes.

JEROME E. WRIGHT - - Cambridge, New York

Kappa Phi Lambda; Varsity Football (1) (2); Captain (3); Varsity Basketball (1); Varsity Track (1) (2); Captain (3); Varsity Baseball (1); Capt. Class Basketball (3); Glee Club (1); President Lettermen's Organization (3); Inter-Fraternity Council (3); Girls' Varsity Basketball Coach (3).

He says there is only one thing that makes a man give a girl an engagement ring—that's the girl.

To marry or not to marry—that is the question.

He'll be missed.

MARY YOUNG - - - - - - McDonald

Delta Tau; Le Cercle Francais; Glee Club (3); Oratorio Society (3).

Scintillatingly snappy.

Says she never did mind doing "Dishes."

When asked whether she would rather be beautiful or good, she said she would rather be beautiful and repent.

Last year she had two Majors—co-education and English. Now she's taking a correspondence course in co-education.

Sophomores

Olin Phipps, President

Let Us Tell It To You

One memorable day in September, 1921, there assembled upon the campus of Westminster, a verdant crop of about one hundred thirty-five Freshmen. Coming as belles and heroes from our home towns, we expected to take the college by storm. We were soon made to realize how green we were and set about to remedy that condition. The first thing we noticed was the apparent willingness of all others to aid us in this laudable ambition, especially the Sophomores. Those early days may well be called "The times that try men's souls."

After the fight in the Brown House and the ensuing ride through the neighboring country, we were convinced that the Sophomores were enemies of all mankind. This impression was heightened when we awoke one fine morning to find staring at us from every corner, some very unusual posters with their "thou shall and thou shall not," governing our future conduct. Insult was added when we found the dainty green numerals we had so carefully painted the night before totally obliterated with black paint. While we were meeting defeat in the flag rush, the annual Freshmen-Sophomores football game, and the inter-class debate, we were acquiring that class spirit and loyalty which has characterized us ever since.

The triumph we won in inter-class basketball was the first taste of the joy of victory. Since then we have continued achieving great successes. Oftimes these victories have been in the still of night when the town was wrapped in darkness.

Well do we recall the day that the town upon arising was greeted by our numerals, the famed '25, glaring defiantly at them from the tower of Old Main. Even better do we recall the hours of hard labor spent scrubbing those same famed figures off. Our last, but by no means our least victory as Freshmen was the winning of the inter-class track meet by a large margin.

Our greatest success was the conquering of our studies and the rising to the worthy rank of Sophomores. Since we had once been inexperienced and ignorant Frosh we knew just how to meet any delicate situation that might arise with that class. We helped them in all such matters as the purchasing of chapel seats and side-walk privileges. In fact we became as some say, experts in creating critical positions. But such taunts must be passed over lightly. Hazing, on a moderate scale, plays an important part in the recreational phase of college student life.

To prove our sterling worth we won the flag rush after a close and hard fight. The football game was also gloriously won against great odds. Merely to avoid being selfish we gave the inter-class debate to the Freshmen. We also lost the class basketball championship which we had won the year before, but we put up a hard fight. We have been well represented in other lines besides studies and inter-class contests. We have contributed to the varsity football, baseball, track, and both girls' and boys' basketball squads. A goodly number of our class were also members of the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs.

We were not in Westminster long until we realized that we had entered the college at a very critical stage in its development. Westminster customs and ideals became a part of our life and we eagerly seized all opportunities to advance the new regime. We have been found ready and willing to do our part. In the two years that are to follow we hope to be found even more dependable, and we are hoping to contribute greater things to make both our class and our college proud of us. We feel that our history and our class life are closely bound up in the changing Westminster. May her history as well as ours be one of advancement.

Gleanings From the Greenhouse

On the 19th of September, 1923, there arrived on the campus of Westminster College, a class of one hundred and three members, which thought to "show the world" that it was destined to do big things. Although characteristically confident to excess at times, the worth of the class in the estimation of Dr. Love is shown by his assertion that this class was "the best lot of Freshmen that ever participated in making history for old Westminster since I have been here."

The Days That Tried Our Souls

Shortly after our advent here, the realization that we were Freshmen was forcefully brought to us. Two great forces, the Sophs and and the upper classmen, constantly made us conscious of their presence, even to prescribing our dress and actions. Despite the fact that they gave to the girls the vests of the fellows, and to the fellows the middies and bloomers of the girls, our good looks remained unimpaired, and our spirit undaunted, as ever.

The Flag Rush

After a night of excitement while exploring the dark lands to the north of us, the Freshmen entered the fight with great determination to revenge the wrongs committed them on the night or perhaps the nights before this memorable event. The fight was even on both sides, with the exception of the two minutes in which Jack Boyles climbed the pole, caught the flag of '25 and pulled in vain to tear it down. To persons of less determination, this would have been a discouragement, but we bravely took our defeat and went ahead with a "do or die" spirit.

Our Contributions to Westminster Athletics

The class of '26 contributed three lettermen to the varsity football team as well as a number of bench warmers, better known as scrubs. When it came to offerings to the varsity basketball squad,—well the whole college took off their hats to us, for Hetra was a sensational light of the quintet. This basketball star has brought honor to his college as well as his class by amassing a greater number of points than any other of the Tri-State league. "A team is as strong as its reserves," and the squad contains many reliable Freshmen reserves.

Not only have our fellows been loyal in upholding the "Blue and White," but also our girls have taken active part in athletics. Mary McLaughrey was a dependable regular.

Annual Freshman-Sophomore Football Game

With high spirits, which we later discovered to amount to overconfidence, we entered into the annual Freshman-Sophomore football game with odds greatly in our favor. The tables turned, however, and the Sophs romped away with a 20-0 victory. Nuf ced.

Class Basketball

After a start which seemed to assure us the championship we were rudely and abruptly checked one afternoon by the team representing the Junior class. We are unable to tell the outcome of the race, however, since at the time when this book goes to press we and the Juniors are tied for the lead with five victories and one defeat each. We feel sure that the play-off will result in our favor, giving us the championship.

Freshman-Sophomore Debate

Revenge for the defeat handed us by the Sophs in the football game came to us in the form of a victory over them in the annual debate. Our team, composed of Moore, Wallace, and Wilson, met the Sophs at every turn and gained a 2-1 decision.

Our Aim

With this feather in our cap as a starter, we hope to grow to full plumage. Keep your eyes on the class of '26. We hope to write many pages both in the history of old Westminster and in the history of the world.

These Freshmen!

The
WESTMINSTER
ATHLETICS

Westminster's Athletic Policy

Previous to the recent organization of the Athletic Council, Westminster's athletics have been guided from the office of the president. Within late years, this year's football season included, our teams have been rather unpleasantly unsuccessful as far as the matter of games won and lost is concerned. Several systems were tried without any apparent success in any of them. In spite of disappointments and adverse criticism, the student body has always supported these policies.

With the advent of the formation of the Athletic Council, a new era in athletics is looked forward to. The main plan of the new system is to relieve the president's office of any athletic administration, except that which is related to the academic standing. The plan was drawn up in early December, 1922, by a number of alumni interested in their Alma Mater, and it was ratified by the Board of Trustees shortly after. In February, 1923, the student body of the college heartily endorsed the plan.

The Council is composed of three members of the Alumni body, three members of the Board of Trustees, three members of the faculty, and three students, one from each of the upper classes. This board is to have complete control of all physical education and athletics at Westminster. They are to elect the Graduate Manager, who is to be responsible to them. An athletic director is to be appointed and to work under this council, but is to be retained as a member of the faculty, in the official position of Director of Physical Education. Seasonal coaches are to be provided by and subject to this board. The financing of the plan is to be in the hands of the alumni and student body, the form of budget to be drawn up when necessary.

This new plan is Westminster's first approach to real efficiency in the handling of our athletics, and promises to put us back upon the athletic map, in the position that rightfully belongs to us. It is the desire of the organization to put capable men into athletics, who are not only athletes, but are imbued with the "old Westminster Spirit," and are real men on the field as well as in the class room. Our president and alumni realize the boldness of the new project, and count upon the unqualified support of the student body to carry it out in full. The outlook is bright and success is assured, because Westminster never fails.

DANIEL H. MCQUISTON
Director of Athletics

JOHN MACLEAN

CHEERLEADERS

JULIEN HERRING

The Old Westminster Spirit

It is spirit that makes college life the brightest phase in man's experience; the most pleasant of all his memories. Memories of Westminster are vivid, and in every Westminster man we find evidences of a mysterious something inherent in him that makes him a marked man. It inevitably comes to the fore in all his activities, and designates him as a follower of the Blue and White. For want of a better name, this indefinable something is called "The Old Westminster Spirit." In it is involved the desire to be true, loyal, honest, industrious; to fight hard and win fairly; to do ones best and be magnanimous in victory and gracious in defeat. A man in whom the Westminster Spirit is found is sometimes defeated, but never licked.

This force, like every other great force, requires guidance; so that it is not misdirected into improper channels. To this important task the cheerleaders are assigned. It is their duty to always keep the Westminster Spirit at its highest point of efficiency, and to direct it upward in the achievement of its highest purpose. Nobly have our cheerleaders performed this task, and to them goes the credit for the potency of the "Old Westminster Spirit."

Westminster Athletic Council

The Westminster athletic council is composed of three members from the board of trustees, three members from the alumni body, three faculty members and three members of the student body. It is understood that, as to that representation from the faculty, that the President of the College is to be in that group.

Into the hands of this council is placed complete control of the athletic situation of Westminster. They will hold annual meetings, one at least every year, probably at Commencement time. It is the privilege of this board to appoint coaches, graduate managers, athletic director, and any other office that will come under their jurisdiction.

As this council will not function properly till the year after this annual is published, it is impossible to say just how efficient it will be. As the system looks, it should be the most efficient machine for athletic management in any college in the country. There is no question about the ability of the men on this council, and the success of the whole thing will ultimately come to rest in the hands of the student body of the college. The real purpose of the council is to correlate athletics and all that is contingent to the best interests of the school; it is only right and proper that our athletic standard should be as high as our scholasic standard. This council is representative of every faction entered into the upbuilding of Westminster, and it should be able to raise Westminster's athletics to the high place where they belong.

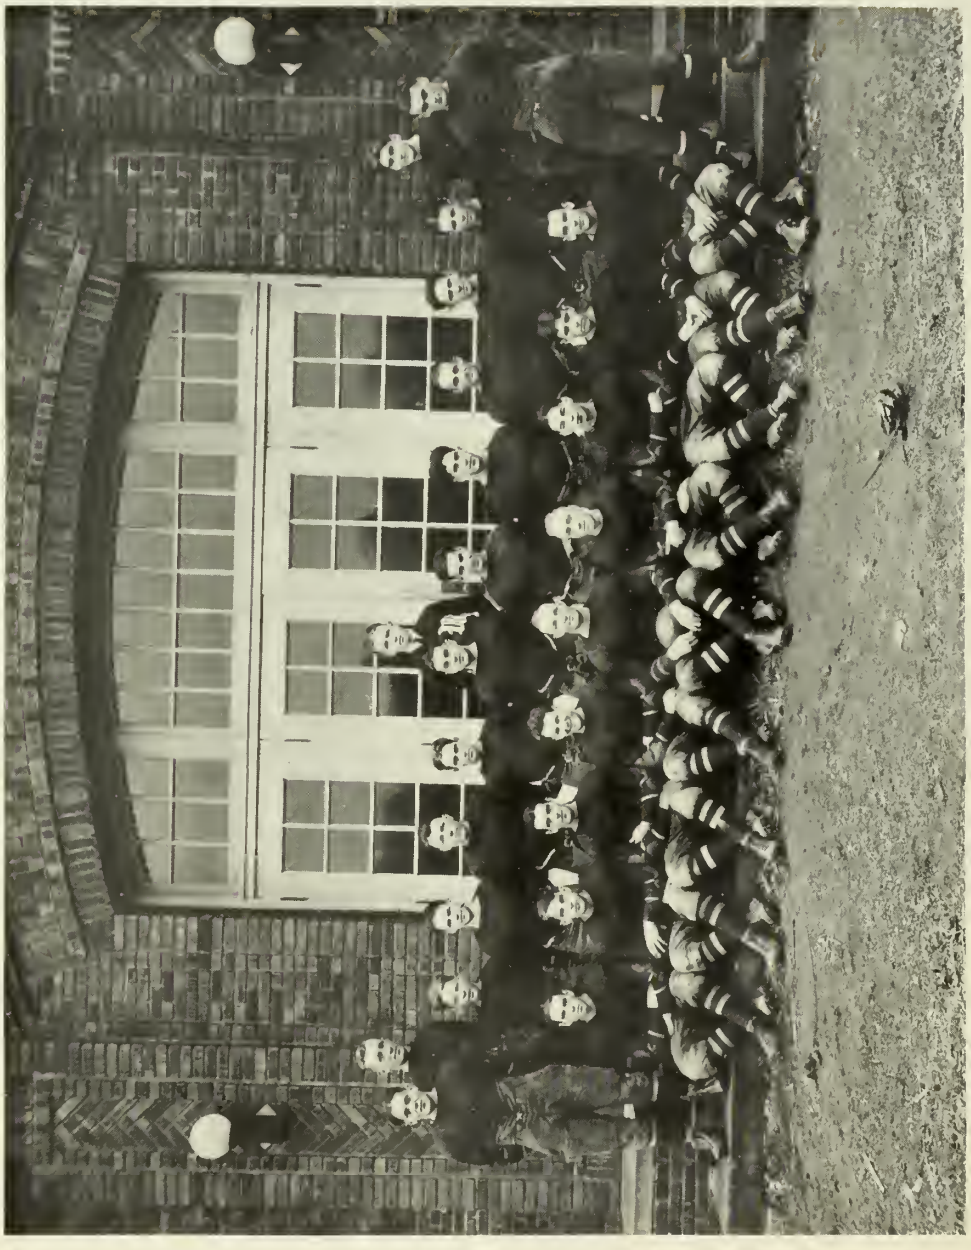
The Intra-Mural Athletic Council

Seeing the need for intra-mural athletic competition in our school, Physical Director McQuiston drafted a constitution that would take care of such an organization, and submitted it to the fraternities and clubs on the campus. A meeting was called by the Pi Rho Phi fraternity and held in their club rooms. As the benefits that would be derived from such an organization seemed obvious to all those present, the constitution was accepted and it was suggested that it be submitted to the faculty athletic committee for approval. This approval was granted, and the new organization's first function was the formation of a basketball league.

The association is governed by a board consisting of a general manager, usually the Director of Athletics of the College, and two representatives from each fraternity or club in the association. This board has power to draft all schedules, judge all protests, formulate eligibility rules and settle all questions that might arise.

This system of intra-mural athletics has proven to be of great advantage in larger institutions of the country, and there is no reason why it should not prove to be an asset to the spirit of Westminster.

Football



Football Squad, 1922

JEROME WRIGHT

Capt. and Capt.-Elect

"Jerry" entered Westminster in the fall of '19 and made his letter in football at the very start. During the year of '20-'21 he attended the Cornell Agricultural School, and was sadly missed from our teams. In the fall of '21 he again entered Westminster and held down the position of end, and at the close of the season was elected to captain the next year's team. In the selection of Class B football teams, he was picked for left-end by every sporting editor in the Tri-State. "Jerry" was again chosen to be captain of next year's team, such action being a rare thing, but in Wright we have a man of sterling leadership qualities, and we are sure that next season's team will be crowned with success.

ROBERT DICKSON

Manager

When Butler failed to return to school at the start of the season, "Bob" was appointed as manager of the team. He deserves much credit for the way he managed the affairs of the team during the entire season. A natural business ability, coupled with a desire to give the team the best, made him a popular leader both at home and abroad. Somewhat of an athlete himself, he understood how to give his men the best of care and training. His skill in handling the detail work while on trips, enabling the coach to spend all of his time with the team, is one of the features of Dickson's work.

D. H. McQUISTON

Coach

To Coach McQuiston goes the credit for seeing Westminster through one of the most difficult seasons in its history. A graduate of the school himself, he had the ideals and traditions of the Blue and White embodied in his soul, and always gave the squad the best that was in him. From the opening of training season until the end, "Dan" was persistently hammering his team into shape with all the ability and persistence he could. When one considers the obstacles that he had to overcome, there is no denying the fact that the season was as successful as could have been expected. It is the unanimous opinion of the squad that he gave the best he had for the 1922 football season.

NORMAN HOELZLE

FULL-BACK

Playing his last year for the Westminster eleven, "Norm" certainly put his all into the game. He not only carried the ball with his plunging tactics, but backed up the line in every defensive play. His absence from the squad next year will be a great loss, but his playing days will linger long in the memories of those who saw him in action.

DAVID FAWCETT

HALF-BACK

After a year's absence, "Dave" returned to Westminster, the school that rightfully claims him, and once more thrilled the student body with his all around football ability. He completed his fourth year of college football this fall, and it is with a deep regret that we lose this virile type of a true Westminster athlete.

CLARENCE RANDALL

TACKLE

"Randy" was also absent for a year, but returned with his old fight and pep, and was one of the most consistent line performers on "Dan's" eleven. The backfield depended upon him to tear holes in the opponent's line. He has another year to play, and we expect great things from him.

FRANK BLACK

CENTER

When the regular center found it expedient to leave school, the next problem of the coach was to find a center. It was a difficult problem in mid-season, but "Blackie" came through and held the position in fine style. With a little more experience and coaching he will probably be a real consistent player, and it is with this hope that we look forward to his next year on the squad.

WILLIAM CLEARY

QUARTER-BACK

This fleet-footed star began his career with Central High of Erie, and has carried his reputation down through the last two years with Westminster. He played end and half-back, calling signals from the latter position with skill and precision. "Bill" has two more years with us.

WILBUR MACKLIN

END

"Mack" did not try for a position on the team during his first year at college, because of an injured knee sustained during his last season in high school. The knee still bothered him this year, but despite this, his abiltiy to tackle and smear plays proved him to be a reliable lineman.

ROBERT ROESE

HALF-BACK

"Broadway" was one of the many, who for the first time, made their appearance on Westminster's gridiron this year. Though a novice at the game, he soon showed that he had the stuff, and was soon hitting the Varsity line for the scrubs, and a little later made one of the first string backs, where we anticipate finding him next fall.

LYLE HENDERSON

TACKLE

Henderson broke into college football in his previous year at Westminster, but due to an injury, he did not show up as we had expected. This fall he played tackle in a very capable manner, thus earning his letter. He was a fighting fool, and when he discarded his head-gear, the opponents were forced to make substitutions.

HOMER BEGGS

END

Beggs, a quiet, unassuming sort of fellow from the small hamlet of Sandy Lake, stepped into the Blue and White togs the first day he entered Wilmington, and knocked off the position of end right from the start. His offense was always of a high order, and his defense left little to be desired.

RUSSELL BYLER

GUARD

A product of New Wilmington, "Jeff" stayed right in the old town, and signed up under "Dan" as a lineman. He had no difficulty in making the Varsity, and held down the position of guard for practically the whole season. His ability to scrap, coupled with this year's experience will make him a valuable player in the years following.

ALLAN HOFFMANN

GUARD

"Hoffie" was a star at Sharon High and managed to make a Varsity berth on our eleven. He played a steady game all year and remained on the first string throughout the season. His position was that of guard and he proved to be worth his weight in gold as a football player.

HARRY ORR

TACKLE

"Heavy" played for Westminster two years ago, but last year he was on the squad of Geneva College. His return this year was very advantageous to his real Alma Mater for he was utilized as a guard and tackle, playing with all his worth on all occasions. He is married now, so will not answer to roll call next year.

WARREN WERT

GUARD

"Pete" received his early training at Grove City during the S. A. T. C. year, and this year, when he got the chance to play against his training school, he showed them something new in football tactics. He was always a cheerful and consistent worker, and we regret to announce that he will not be with us next year.

GEORGE MILLER

GUARD

Miller, our diminutive guard, tips the scales well around the two hundred mark. His big physique enabled him to hold a place on the line, and whenever he got into a game he displayed a form that should be of advantage to the coach in the season that is to come.

RAYMOND THORNTON

GUARD

In response to the call for students to back up the football team, "Ray" although a third year man in school, and not on the squad in previous years, came out and put up a great game all season. He did not make his letter, but is to be commended for his fighting characteristics.

Review of 1922 Football Season

The season of 1922, although probably the most disastrous in the history of Westminster athletics, was at the same time a very remarkable and interesting season. The story of Westminster football in 1922 is the story of an awe-inspiring struggle in the face of such difficulties as would make the most courageous of us give up the fight in despair. But due to the determined efforts of those in charge and to the whole-hearted response of the student body to their appeal for support, the schedule was carried out and in every game the indomitable spirit and sheer grit of our boys was marveled at from all sides.

A week before the beginning of school, the candidates assembled and Coach McQuiston discovered that he had only two letter men around which to build his team. Most of the material was light and inexperienced, and there was scarcely enough men for two teams. The next week, however, brought the return of four more letter men, and several promising freshmen also reported. With less than two weeks preliminary training, the strong W. & J. team was met at Washington, and we were able to hold them to a 34-0 score. On the following Saturday, our home season was opened with Alfred, the game ending in a scoreless tie. The next week we traveled to Rochester, N. Y., where for three quarters we outplayed the husky Rochester University team, only to lose by one touchdown in the last quarter. Then came Geneva who caught us when two of our best players were out of the game with injuries, and defeated us in a hard fought game, 32-0. A week later Fordham University was played in New York, and with our patched up team, we were able to hold the strong Catholic team to a 12-0 score, surprising even our most ardent backers, who had predicted an overwhelming defeat. Thiel was then met at home and beat us in a hard fought battle, 19-6. On Armistice day we played Allegheny at Meadville, and suffered our worst defeat of the season, because during the previous week three of our best players had left school, and our team was in a frightfully weakened condition. We met Waynesburg the next week and were again defeated, but not disgraced, for in this game our boys fought one of the greatest battles ever witnessed. Then on Thanksgiving day we met and were defeated by our ancient rivals, Grove City, by the score of 56-0.

Thus ended a season disastrous in many respects, but which brought out the true fighting qualities of Westminster athletes.

The Freshman-Sophomore Football Game

True to tradition, the annual scrap between the under-classmen was the usual thriller. On a bright, clear, November afternoon, before an enthusiastic crowd, the Sophomore eleven, coached by John K. M. Morrow, defeated Professor Eberling's gridders by a twenty to nothing score. It was a complete surprise, but the Sophs showed unusual team work and through this element rather than through superior physical force, they copped the fracas. It was a grand fight throughout, and the game proved to be a thriller despite the one-sided score. "Bob" Houston proved to be the big star of the game, sliding off tackle and hitting the line for gains almost at will. Jones proved a good forward passer and Earl Black grabbed a Jones pass for a thirty-five yard gain. "Red" Anderson broke up play after play at center, and "Stevie" ran the ends in fine fashion.

For the Freshmen, Anderson and F. Gibson, the big guards, performed nobly, but their backfield lacked organization and failed to gain consistently. Gibson was forced out with a bad knee in the second half. The lineup and summary was:

FRESHMEN—0		SOPHOMORES—20
Michael	Left-end	Davis
Boyles	Left-tackle	Black
Anderson	Left-guard	McKinney
French	Center	Anderson
F. Gibson	Right-guard	H. Vance
Tait	Right-tackle	Heinz
Fraser	Right-end	Brisbine
Garvin	Quarter-back	Jones

BASKET-BALL

Basketball Squad, 1923

DAVE FAWCETT

CAPTAIN

Captain Fawcett worked hard for his team, and a great deal of its success may be attributed to him. His floor work was little short of sensational, and he was a dead shot. He was fast and always full of fight, never relenting in making points for his team until the final blow of the whistle. As a compliment for his wonderful work, we noticed that the sport editors of the Tri-State newspapers picked him for one of the forwards on their mythical five. "Davy" ranked high amongst the scorers in the Tri-State league, and will always be remembered as one of Westminster's basketball heroes.

JOHN MILLER

MANAGER

Miller was faithfully consistent in his work for the team, and as a trainer and carer for equipment, his work was up to the standard of a senior with a Westminster education. This was "Johnnie's" first break into varsity athletics and we are sure that he earned his manager's letter in an entirely commendable manner. He is also one of our men that leave their Alma Mater this year, and it is with a feeling of regret that we let him go.

J. H. SMITH

COACH

The coach had been around school for some time and even then was not known by all the student body. But when the team he coached began to roll up scores against our ancient rival, it was then that he stepped into the limelight of Westminster publicity. He is quiet and unassuming, is not given to violent exhortations from the coaching line, but if ever a team knew the fine points of basketball, it was this year. He is a graduate of Oberlin College, and well worthy to coach our teams. To him we give credit for one of the most successful basketball seasons at Westminster in several years.

JAMES COURTNEY

CAPT.-ELECT—GUARD

Too much cannot be said in recognition of this sterling guard. "Jim" was the bulwark of the defense of the team, and right there when the team started the ball down the floor. In recognition of his ability, he was given honorable mention by the sport writers of the Tri-State, and next year we expect to see him on the first-string mythical five.

CLARENCE RANDALL

CENTER

Despite the fact that "Randy" had been out of college basketball for a year, he had very little difficulty in making the varsity pivot position, and retained the position in a commendable manner. He was a fighter, and very consistent in breaking up the opponent's attack.

WILLIAM CLEARY

GUARD

"Bill" stepped right out at the beginning of the season as a running guard, and maintained a high calibre of play throughout the year. His dribbling ability was little short of sensational, and his defensive tactics were admirable. We expect to hear more from him in his remaining two years.

JOHN HETRA

FORWARD

Chosen by the sport writers of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania as a forward worthy to be on a mythical five chosen from those states; and having the highest average for foul-shooting in this part of the country, "Hickory's" work was marvelous. He was brilliant, dependable, fast and accurate.

ROBERT HOUSTON

GUARD

"Bob" was the dependable guard that was always held in reserve, and was second to the famed Courtney as a stationary guard. When called upon to step into the game, he always crashed through with pep and vigor that soon stopped the attacks of the opponent. This is only his second year, and he has great possibilities.

WILLIAM CALDWELL

CENTER

Although "Bill" does not hail from a metropolis, he certainly did show big town stuff when on the basketball floor. He had trouble with broken arches practically all season, and if this had not been the case we would undoubtedly have heard more of him. He promises to become a mainstay on the future quintets of Westminster.

Review of 1923 Basketball Season

The varsity basketball five have compiled the most impressive record since the championship team of 1918. Opening the season with a loss to Saint Bonaventure on the home floor, they staged a comeback in the second game by winning from Alfred University. During the following week a trip was taken through Washington County and games were lost to W. and J. and Waynesburg. Although both games were lost, our team played well and neither game was won until the last minute of play. As a climax to the trip, Thiel was decisively defeated on their own floor.

Examination week followed and the team was able to get but very little practice. Friday, of the same week, a close game was lost to Geneva at Beaver Falls and the next night the team staged a comeback by winning from Waynesburg. The next home game was with Bethany and this proved the most exciting of the season. During the entire game there was never more than a three point difference, our team finally winning out by one point. Going at top speed our passers were unable to stop Grove City and lost a hard fought game to them on our home court. Another trip into New York State netted us a victory over Alfred and a 20-19 defeat by Saint Bonaventure. Following this trip the following teams were met and defeated: Geneva, Thiel, New Wilmington Scholastics and Allegheny, twice. The final game of the season was lost to Grove City on the latter's floor. Eighteen games were played during the season, ten being won and eight lost. Nine of these were Tri-State games. Every team in the league was played with the exception of Duquesne. According to final standing, Westminster finished in the third place with five victories and four defeats.

Much credit is due the fellows this year, for with only one letter man back from last year's squad, the outlook was not bright. But with the return of Fawcett and Randall, letter men of two years ago, things looked better. Courtney, Fawcett, and Randall formed the nucleus for a good team. Cleary and Hetra fitted in with these men in an excellent manner, thus giving us a winning team. The following men received letters: Captain Fawcett, Hetra, Randall, Cleary and Captain-elect Courtney.

Girls' Basketball Squad, 1923

BETTY GARVIN

CAPTAIN

As captain, as a star forward, and as an accurate foul shooter, Betty, who is a four-year letter-man, holds an enviable position on Westminster's team. A "clean player," "good fighter," and a "swift cutter" are a few of the assets of her basketball career. Her reputation among visiting teams has been such as to make them enquire: "Is that little dark-haired forward playing?" A ball in her hands means a ball in the basket.

Fulfilling her duties as captain, backed by the able coaching of Jerry Wright, and the willing co-operation of all the squad, she has made a name for Westminster which is respected on all collegiate floors of Western Pennsylvania.

JEROME WRIGHT

COACH

We have heard of Jerry in football, track, basketball, and other activities, but we are introducing him as coach of the girls' basketball team.

A good coach must be sympathetic, fair, a keen observer and a pusher. Certainly Jerry was all of these. He was always on the job, always pushing the team to do its best. As a basketball player himself, he knows the fine points of the game, and he did his best to get these across to the team. The winning of the greater part of our games is surely evidence enough that our coach knew his job and handled it in a successful way. Every girl on the squad appreciates what he has done for us and we wish him success in the future.

EMMA BLACKBURN

MANAGER

The success of the girls' basketball season has been due, largely to their very competent manager, Emma Blackburn. With her appointment to the position, a good schedule was assured for the season. She is capable, "peppy," full of "push," and interested in the game and the girls. Due to her perseverence, the number of games scheduled for the girls was raised from nine last year to twelve this year, but on account of cancellation, only ten games were played. In spite of annulling of games and the sickness of the players, she has managed the team, the schedule and the games with efficiency and creditable results.

BERNICE BROTHERS

CAPT.-ELECT—FORWARD

Another year sees Bernice still "bobbed-haired" and still starring for Westminster. Ably backed by her captain, she is always ready to pass and receive the ball, and is not afraid to try a long shot when it is necessary. Despite a few discouragements, such as sickness or sprained fingers, she has ably and commendably assisted the team in putting over a winning season for the college year of 1923.

GRACE RAPP

GUARD

At last Westminster has found a team-mate for Lois Logan. Grace has proved to be conscientious both in work and in training. The test of her faithfulness has come in each game when we have seen her go into the fight eager and determined, take rough treatment and falls and come up smiling every time. With a brace of guards like Grace and Lois, visiting forwards find themselves useless and our forwards find themselves intensely busy.

LOIS LOGAN

GUARD

After two years of hard playing, we still find Lois on the Blue and White squad. With the record that she has already made, we can still say that she is steady and sure, a hard and conscientious worker. Visiting teams have always found her an almost unsurmountable barrier between them and the desired basket. We are also glad to say that Lois is a clean player and is filled with the spirit that brings success in anything attempted.

DOROTHY ROLL

CENTER

With "Dot" at center the game is sure to begin all right. She seems to be naturally endowed with the ability to get the tip-off. She is a fast player and puts all she has into every game.

MARY McLAUGHRY

SIDE CENTER

As a new member among the girls, Mary has come to the front with her earnest endeavor. Especially commendable have been her efforts to play girls' rules instead of the boys' to which she had been accustomed before coming to Westminster.

LOIS CAROL

FORWARD

Swift, tenacious, determined and dependable are a few of the traits that can be found in the playing of this forward. She can go into the game at any time; get the ball, make a basket, and continue playing as though that were a mere pastime.

RUTH HAMILTON

SIDE CENTER

Small but strong; careful but quick, steady and sure, characterizes Ruth, another efficient side center. The ball sent in her direction means the ball in her hands. With true Westminster spirit, she enters a game to win.

Review of Girls' Basketball

Nothing could have had brighter prospects for a successful season than the Girls' Varsity Basketball for the 1922-'23 season, for they had practically the same line-up as last year, namely, Betty Garvin, captain, and Bernice Brothers, captain-elect for 1923-'24, as forwards; "Dot" Roll as center, and Lois Logan as guard.

The first week of November Jerry Wright, coach, announced the date for initial practice. In response to this first call for recruits, girls of all heights and builds appeared at the "gym" for the first scrimmage. After a few weeks of hard practice the number of candidates was reduced from thirty-two to sixteen, and when the squad was chosen it was found that in addition to last year's line-up Grace Rapp, of the 1919-'20 varsity, had been chosen guard, and Mary McLaughrey, a Freshman and sister of the famous "Tuss," was to hold the position of side center. Moreover the new girls had produced several players of true basketball ability, among whom were Ruth Hamilton and Lois Carroll. These new members were indeed welcome and whenever needed they have substituted in a very creditable manner.

Emma Blackburn has proved herself a capable manager by the attractive schedule that she arranged and admirably handled.

At the close of the first home game with Slippery Rock State Normal our girls were on the short end of the 7-6 score. However, this game was in no way typical of the season, for the team decisively defeated Thiel and Geneva abroad. The Carnegie Tech lassies next went down to defeat on the home floor. On the third of February the Pitt game at home ended with a three point margin in favor of Pitt. But the home games with Thiel and Geneva as well as the one abroad with Slippery Rock were victories. And the season-closer abroad with Tech resulted in a tied score.

We are indeed proud of the coach, of the captain, and of the girls who have worked hard to produce a team that throughout the season manifested a spirit of fair play and clean sportsmanship.

Inter-Class Basketball

Inter-class basketball is one of the regular features of winter sport activity on the Westminster campus. This class of basketball has many advantages that varsity ball does not have, in that it is more democratic than the latter and allows more fellows to get experience and exercise, and also promotes a more lively interest in the game and in athletics in general.

This year the league started out with the usual enthusiasm and ardor. The class teams practiced almost as regularly as the varsity in order to get the best possible results in the series, and their practice did result in some very thrilling games.

The Seniors had very little chance from the very start. Although this class had won the championship in previous years, they could not get their old combination working. They were game to the last, however, and in spite of beating after beating, remained in the series to the end.

The Juniors produced an excellent team and for a while it looked as if they were going to win the championship. The first year men defeated them once, and in the return game the Juniors came out on top. This resulted in a tie for first place, and in the play-off the Juniors lost.

The Sophomores were a scrappy bunch, and had a rather flashy season, losing several games by just a few points. They always managed to defeat the Seniors decisively, but were not consistent enough to win over the others.

The Freshmen won the series. They had good material, and were organized into a good combination, losing only one game, that to the Juniors, and winning the play-off in a very decisive manner. Their star forward, "Tommy" Gibson, was the leading foul shooter and field goal getter in the league

The standing of the teams was as follows:

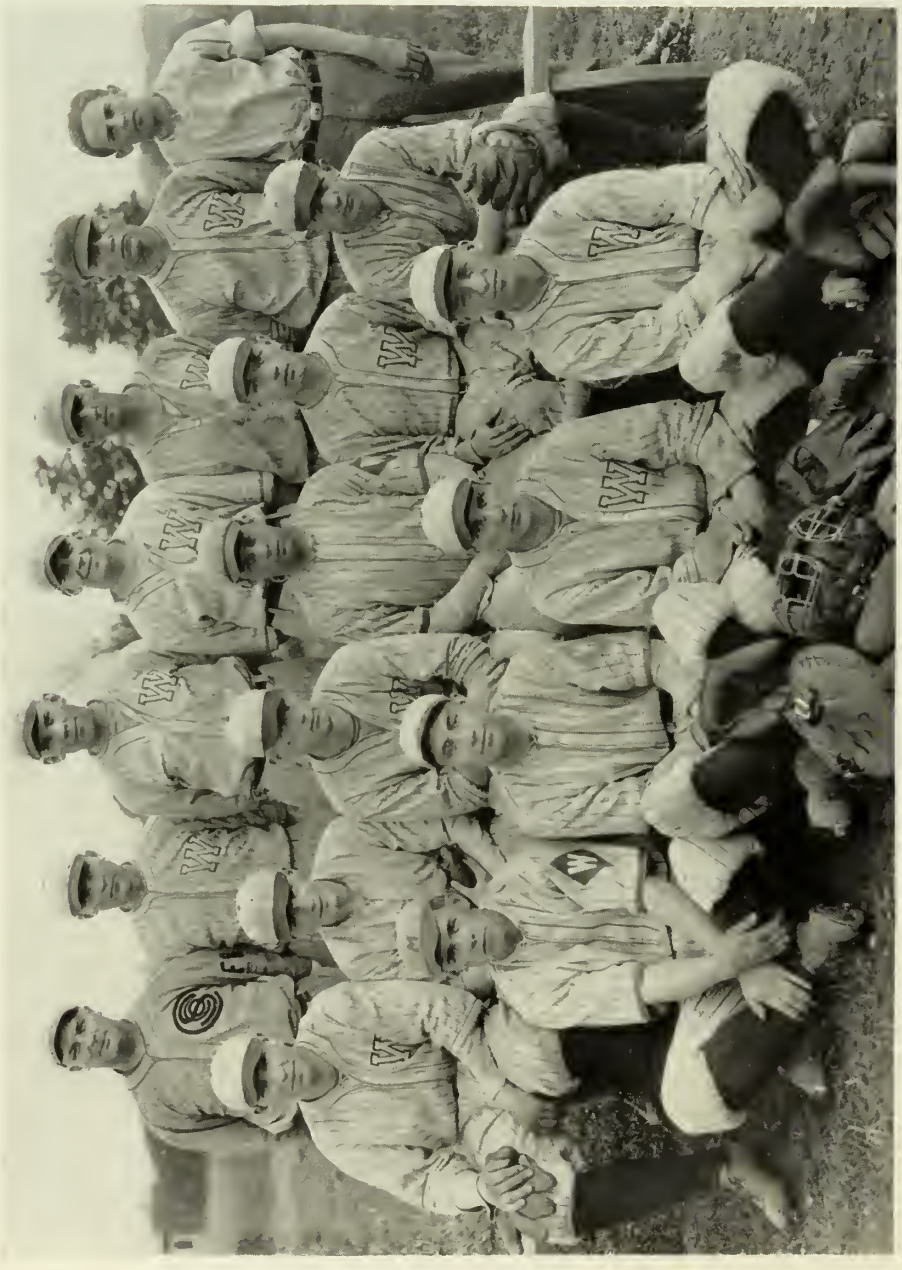
Baseball



Baseball Squad, 1922

STANLEY GRANGER

CAPTAIN

Granger was our reliable hitter, and unbeatable infielder. Due to an accident at the Pitt game, his services had to be dispensed with for the most of the remaining games. As a pinch hitter, his percentage was 1.000, as was shown at Slippery Rock and Grove City. "Stan" was a man respected by all the members of the squad, and worthy to be a captain of a Westminster team. He always had the necessary punch, and plenty of fight, which occasionally got the best of him. He knew baseball from beginning to end, and was one of the best short-stops in the college teams of the Tri-State.

JOHN NEVIN

MANAGER

"Johnnie" chased balls all over the lot in his preceding year at Westminster, and well earned his way into the managership of the baseball team of 1922. While serving in the official capacity of manager, he handled the detail work of his department in a very business-like manner, and always saw to it that his team lacked nothing in the way of equipment, or any other necessities vital to the playing ability of a baseball machine. His indiscriminate loyalty to the players and the coach is to be highly commended.

W. S. HART

COACH

Our coach was a man that not only knew baseball and could play it, but had that fundamental principal necessary to a teacher, the ability to put himself in the other man's place and show him how to do it. He worked hard and long with the boys, whipping them into shape, and his teams always presented a formidable lineup, worthy of any foe. To say that "Hub" was well liked by the boys would be putting it very mild. He was a pal and brother, and baseball teams that he turned out always had a wonderful spirit, their morale was high, and their ability to work together was uncanny.

NORMAN HOELZLE

Captain-Elect—Left Field

Aggressive! That's the word that describes "Norm" best. He is always alert and on the job, and you can count the "flies" on one hand that he missed during the entire season. When he caught them it was always with a spectacular effort, but he always came up smiling, with the ball in mitt. He was also there with a wicked stick, too.

GREGORY CONLEY

First Base

The original baseball fiend at last! "Irish" would wake up in economics class if anyone would mention baseball. He was the best first baseman on the team, and was also a catcher of no mean ability, not to mention his swatting power. He will not be in the lineup this year, we are sorry to say.

FLOYD SNYDER

Catcher

"Buck" came to Westminster from Wilkinsburg Hi, with a reputation as a catcher, and he proved that the dope was O. K. His ability lay in his knack of sizing up an opposing batter, and then always holding on to the ball after the batter had missed. He did not return to school this year, and his place will be hard to fill.

WILLIAM GOLDSTROHM

SHORTSTOP

"Goldie" was one of the mainstays of the team, playing the important pivot position at second base. His speed and pep always put a lot of fight into the team, and to him we give a lot of credit for the high morale of our aggregation.

RICHARD BARRETT

CENTER FIELD

Having a reputation as an excellent outfielder when he first came to Westminster, "Dick" proved his ability his first year, and followed up with an equally good record for the past season. He knows the game thoroughly, and despite his small stature, he swung a mean bat.

RAYBURN CAMPBELL

THIRD BASE

"Fluky" may be said to have all the possibilities of developing into a star. His good nature is apparent no matter what the odds. He was utilized as a shortstop, third baseman and pitcher, and we expect much from him in 1923. It is said that his "slow" ball always fools Grove City.

JAMES POLLOCK

Third Base

Although a new man in the field of baseball, "Jimmie" covered the third sack in a very excellent manner, and deserves recommendation. He showed the pep and fight of a real Westminster athlete, and we hope to see bigger things from him in the future.

ROBERT DICKSON

Second Base

"Bob" was one of the most faithful members of the squad. He followed baseball for two years, and must be given credit for his stick-to-it-iveness. When Captain Granger was injured, he filled the position of shortstop in a very capable manner, earning his letter.

LOYAL BROWN

Second Base

"Brownie" was another new man to report to Coach Hart, and made a berth on the team right off the bat. Although a little erratic at times, his fielding and especially his hitting made him a promising player for the coming season.

LYLE GUTHRIE

PITCHER

"Honey" as we are prone to call this dizzy blonde, was one of the bright spots on the team. As a pitcher his talents were undeveloped, but he was no slouch on the mound. His hitting was brought out in its entirety when he was shifted to right field for he ranked among the highest of collegiate swatters.

PHILIP GOUGH

PITCHER

Goff was on the pitching staff of "Hub's" squad, and gives prospects of developing into a first class college pitcher. Although "Phil" did not make his letter, the school counts on him to crash through in the spring of 1923.

LYLE HENDERSON

PITCHER

The gang used to call him "Yellow Horse," comparing him to the celebrated pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates. That nickname should be sufficient to describe him as a deliverer of the ball. Great things are expected from him in the coming season.

Review of 1922 Baseball Season

The season of 1922 was a rather unsuccessful one due to the fact that the material was insufficient for the task before it, and partly because the faculty ruling on eligibility became enforced. The schedule comprised twenty games that would have been worth while as victories. Among these twenty games were four trips that were enjoyed by the players. The home games were disappointing because none of the inter-collegiate contests necessitated the tolling of the "Old Chapel" bell.

The opening game with Tech, at Pittsburgh, brought forth no surprises, but we made a good showing against Waynesburg, losing 5 to 4, in a ninth inning rally. All hopes were shattered, however, when West Virginia University held a field meet at our expense. The independent teams from New Castle and Sharon were no match for us, and these victories gave us new courage. The next three games with Pitt, Duquesne and Slippery Rock were lost by close scores, and were nothing to be ashamed of. We must not overlook the two games with Grove City, for despite the fact that we lost them both, they were both thrillers. In the second game with Slippery Rock, which was played in the rain, victory was ours, the score being 4 to 3. The remaining games with Muskingum, Pittsburgh Collegians, Duquesne and Alumni were chalked against us, and need no further mention.

All things considered, the season was successful. No one man can be cited for praise, nor credit be awarded anyone, but the team as a whole. The coach worked hard and faithful in his endeavor to formulate a winning combination and instill the "Old Westminster Spirit" into the boys. With the players of the 1922 season as a nucleus for the next year's team, the school can expect a brilliant season.

Track

Track Squad, 1922

CHARLES ASHTON

"Chuck" was the greatest discus-thrower in this part of the country, and was known as a national figure, placing third in the Penn relays held in Philadelphia last spring. It won't feel like spring this year, without Ashton hurling his saucer all over New Wilmington.

CLARENCE McELWAIN

"The "Holcad" called him the fastest man in school, and literally, that is on his feet, he was. It was nothing for "Brownie" to run the hundred in ten flat, and the sensational race of the Geneva field meet, was his clean sweep of the field in the two-twenty yard dash.

JEROME WRIGHT

True to his type, that of a natural born athlete, "Jerry" easily made a place on the track squad, and earned his letter. His specialty was in the jumps, and he had little difficulty in making a place in any of the events that he entered.

GEORGE BARKER

This long, lanky guy from the wilds of New York State specialized in the pole vault. He didn't have much opposition in the inter-class meet, so he tried his luck in the Geneva meet, readily placing in his event, and now wearing the winged "W."

Track

Westminster has done very little in collegiate track representation in the past few years. The present facilities, such as they are, have hampered the development of this sport, for with a clay track as we have, it is indeed difficult to expect development of good track men, not to mention the organization of an efficient track team.

In the early spring of 1922, "Chuck" Ashton was appointed captain and manager of a team to be organized if the material was of high enough calibre to warrant such. After the inter-class track meet, a number of participants entered in a meet with Geneva, held at Beaver Falls, and then later on, in a collegiate meet held by the University of Pittsburgh.

As a result of these meets, four men qualified to wear the Westminster track letter, namely, Ashton, McElwain, Wright and Barker. Wright was elected to captain the team in the coming season. Meets have been scheduled with Geneva and Thiel, but as Wright is the only letter man to start the season, it is hoped that sufficient material will be unearthed in order that old Westminster may outshine her rivals, in track as in all else.

Tennis

In 1917, tennis held a very important position in the athletic life of Westminster, and was recognized then as a varsity sport. In the last few years, however, we find no data on a Westminster tennis team. Last year, one of the clubs of the school organized a team and engaged in contests with several of the surrounding colleges, but were not recognized by the college as representative of it.

With the advent of tennis being recognized as a varsity sport once more, we look to the development of a real team. The organization of new sports takes time, and tennis is no exception, but there seems to be a wealth of material in school, and when the new courts are completed there is no reason why we cannot develop some stars. The net game is becoming more popular among the smaller tri-state colleges, and there is no doubt that within a short time it will be adopted by them all as varsity endeavor. With a schedule within our class and the school behind the team, Westminster should be supreme.

The Inter-Class Track Meet

In order to stimulate interest in track, the Y. M. C. A. of the college conceived the idea of having an inter-class track meet each spring, and as a reward offered a silver loving cup to the class that amassed the greatest number of points. The idea was tried out in the spring of '21, and was a great success, the Freshmen winning the trophy with ease.

The meet was so successful that it has established itself as a permanent feature of spring activities. Last spring, despite the fact that the weather was cold and generally unfavorable for a good meet, and the condition of the track was not up to standard, good time and distance were made. The Freshmen easily proved their superiority, and scored seventy-six points out of a possible one hundred and thirty-three. They outnumbered the other classes in entries and secured two places in almost every event. In the events of the meet, McElwain, Freshman; Ashton, Senior; Black, Sophomore; Guthrie, Junior; and Barker, Freshman, were the outstanding luminaries for their respective classes.

The following is the official point summary:

MUSIC

Mens' Glee Club

Everybody knows of the Men's Glee Club of Westminster! The Club this year was just as well known, as good, and as good looking as ever before, so we are not trying to bluff you into believing that the Club really enjoyed a successful season. The time and effort put forth by the members and the director were well spent, and to them we must give due credit for we realize the burdens thy bear, though the work is not all fun as some of us imagine.

But the fun came too. Imagine the "flag rush" scramble for the dress suits in the college and the surrounding towns; a similar fight for shirts, collars, ties, studs and the other trimmings; and that thrill each one received when they "stepped out" and "canaried" themselves into the approval of their own fair maidens and other prominent people of the college.

But just a word about the program presented this year. All the selections were rendered in an artistic manner at each recital. The choice of pieces gave each audience variety and quality, bringing out the charm and beauty of worth while music. In this particular line we would say that Westminster's Men's Glee Club compares with the best in this part of the country, a fact that makes us feel proud of our Alma Mater.

To Director Nielsen we give the most praise. His untiring efforts have worked wonders for each individual and for the Club as a whole. The accompanist, the quartette, and the violinist, proved themselves no mean artists. The Club next year will have to be good if it is to surpass the record made in 1923.

The Girls' Glee Club of Westminster had an exceptionally interesting season during 1922-23. Again it was under the very efficient supervision of Professor Per Nielsen, director of the Conservatory of Music. His careful training combined with the whole-hearted interest of the girls produced a club that has won approval from every one of its audiences.

The home concert was given the first of March in the college chapel; and the grils received many expressions of commendation from Westminster students and their friends. The next week the girls began their annual tour with an appearance before a large and enthusiastic crowd in New Castle. Their success that night was repeated each of the four ensuing evenings. They set out from New Wilmington, laden with many suit-cases, on Tuesday morning, and traveled to Sharpsburg. The next day they sang in Elizabeth. In Braddock, besides the evening concert in the church, the club appeared and gave a short program before the two high schools of the town, and met with a hearty welcome at both of them. The next day Latimer Junior High in Pittsburgh, gave them a like reception. The week's tour ended Friday night when the girls sang in Ben Avon.

Besides the twelve or fifteen ensemble numbers on the program there were songs by the Girls' Quartette, a reading by Miss Edith Lockhart, and a piano solo by Miss Margaret Fraser.

Work and play, a few failures, more successes, fun and comradeship —these are the things that have marked the season just past. May the girls and their director have only pleasant remembrances of their sojourn and companionship together in the Glee Club of this year.

The Artist Course

This course is a very interesting one arranged by Mr. Nielsen, Director of the College of Music. As it would naturally be some kind of a musical course under his direction, that is precisely what it is We enjoy three numbers a semester, given by talented musicians in the various fields of music.

Few of us realize how fortunate we are at Westminster in being able to listen to a member of the Chicago or Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, a famous pianist, violinist or any one important in the musical world. It is very seldom that such a person comes to a small town like New Wilmington or performs before such a small audience, although in this way we receive the opportunity of hearing real musicians within our own midst, due to the tireless efforts of Mr. Nielsen.

This year we have been very fortunate indeed in that we had both variety and quality in the numbers of the course, as the following list bears witness to the fact:

Raoul Vidas—Famous French Violinist
Susanne Keener—Coloratura Soprano, Metropolitan Opera Co.
Arturo Bonucci—Italian 'Cellist, Metropolitan Musical Bureau
Lester Donahue—Pianist
Cecil Arden—Contralto
Richard Crooks—Tenor

Oratio

One of the "big nights" during Commencement Week is that one when the Oratorio Society gives its concert. This has long been an annual affair. It is eagerly awaited because of the high grade of music rendered.

As has usually been the custom, two oratorios are going to be given this year. One of them has been given in America comparatively few times, but its beauty merits popularity. This one is "Miriam's Song of Triumph," composed by Franz Schubert. W. H. Milman has written the version used from the German Grillparzer and from the fifteenth chapter of Exodus. The other one is just as pretty and effective. Instead of being based on any certain chapter or verse of the Bible, the text was chosen from different portions and arranged by Luther D. Reed, while the praise for the musical composition of the "City of God" belongs to H. Alexander Matthews.

This year we are exceptionally fortunate in having Mary Mellish, a prima dona of the Metropolitan Opera Company, to sing the solo part. She has a soprano voice which will certainly be an additional attraction for the rendition of the oratorios.

The Chapel Choir

This is one organization in school that previously has scarcely been mentioned, but it is nevertheless worthy of praise. Those of us who have heard them sing every Sabbath evening appreciate their music but do not realize the work there is connected with it. The fact that practice is held once each week for a one hour period may seem to be of little consequence, but in a semester the time thus spent is considerable.

Everyone recognizes the importance of having the choir do its share in the Sabbath evening chapel service. It completes the service and makes an appropriate setting for the sermon which music does better than anything else. Even if we do not seem to show our appreciation, we are indeed grateful to all of the members, and we would not like in the least to be without them.

Under the direction of Mr. Nielsen, this choir composed of about thirty members, receives valuable musical instruction; so that not only the chapel service is aided by their efforts, but the members themselves derive benefit from the training they receive.

The House Next Door

On the evening of December nineteenth, something seemed to make everyone feel neighborly, and so we went to "The House Next Door" for a very enjoyable evening. Strange as it may seem, we saw two families, an English and a Jewish, with conflicting customs and traditions, finally united by the thread of romance.

The Wada Club

The Wada Club was founded two years ago for the promotion of interest and the development of ability in the field of drama. This organization is in keeping with the movements of the Drama League which is doing so much for the introduction of better drama on the stages of our country.

Last year the Wada Club presented several one-act plays throughout the year, completing the year's work with the well known play of Charles Rann Kennedy, "The Servant in the House." Because of the wide demand for this play it was presented twice during Commencement Week and several invitations were received to make a tour over the Unitd Presbyterian Church.

This year the Club expects to present several of the noted "Washington Square Plays" in behalf of the Drama League of America. The Wada Club built itself a lasting memorial in the equipment of a Little Theatre on the third floor of Old Main with an up-to-date stage with lights, curtains and other fittings.

Much credit is due Professor Moses as the originator and founder of the club which is doing its share in the uplift of modern drama and which has the loyal support of the students of Westminster.

The Lyceum Course

This is a lecture course arranged by Professor Moses in the interest of the town people as well as of the students. The range of its program has been varied, ranging from interesting lectures to comic opera, and even a magician; so that the student body has received quality as well as variety in the different numbers.

The Hinshaw Quartette concert opened the season. The first half of their program was well liked, but the latter half, comprising the comic opera "Cox and Box" was the cause of almost continuous laughter.

Our next number was given by the greatest preacher-orator in America, and possibly in the world, Dr. S. Parks Cadman. His address dealt with the "Lights and Shadows of the World," impressing upon us his gospel of unity. He is a powerful speaker, thinker, and Christian statesman, who we may be proud to have heard speak.

Again we turned back from the serious to listen to a humorist, Jess Pugh, who truly succeeded in living up to his name as a humorist. Davis, the magician, also entertained us by performing puzzling and mystic antics; so that no matter how hard we tried we were unable to follow his movements.

Miss Margaret Stahl delighted her audience by reading "Six Cylinder Love". Her characterizations were well carried out; the plot was interesting, but yet under it ran a moral thread which by no means lessened the effectiveness of the interpretation.

Another woman speaker of note was Miss Ida M. Tarbell, who on Lincoln's Birthday anniversary spoke on "The Making of Lincoln". Since she has made a close study of his life, she was fitted for such an address.

The last number was by no means of least importance. Due to the unusualness of the musical program given it was very well liked. With the appearance of the Cardin-Lieurance Company, the lyceum course of 1922-23 was delightfully finished.

May Day

Just as the sun was sinking into the horizon, streaking the sky with its many colored rays, a procession of almost as many colors was in progress from the Hillside to the campus in front of Old Main on the evening of May twenty-second. The May Queen led the way to the campus followed by the queen-elect with her attendants.

When Miss Martha Paxton approached Miss Elizabeth Thompson to place upon her head the May Queen's crown, it certainly was a pretty picture. A portrayal of a "Spring Day" followed. Spring herself appeared, followed by Flowers, Wind, Sun, Rain, and even a Rainbow; while the Bluebirds also brought tidings of spring into the garden before the end of the day was proclaimed by the Crescent Moon. The winding of the May Pole was then very gracefully done by the Senior girls.

The whole evening's performance was very effective, with the novel idea of the spring day so well planned and carried out by Miss McQuiston. To her is due a large part of the credit, but the interest of the girls themselves had its share in making this one of the prettiest days at Westminster.

The Argo has become recognized as one of the most important of the school productions, and its publication is eagerly looked forward to by both alumni and students. It was published first in 1904 by the Senior class. The following year the Junior class successfully published the book, and since that time the Argo has been edited by the Junior class.

Just as the college is gradually progressing, so it is the desire of each Junior class to progress and make their Argo the best ever. The Class of '24 has tried to catch this progressive Westminster Spirit and pass it on to its readers.

The Argo is more than a class publication, for the chief aim of those who publish the book is to depict the life and activities of the whole college. It is really a "Memory Book," for it contains many snapshots of student life and witty write-ups of the various activities at Westminster.

If in the years to come the contents of this Argo bring back to the readers a flood of memories of the happy days spent in Old Westminster, then the aim of the Argo has been accomplished.

The Holcad

The Holcad, the sister ship of the Argo, was founded in 1884. It is interesting to note that Dr. Love was a member of the first staff. The Holcad might be called the voice of the student body, as it is a weekly publication telling about all the college events, sports, music, dorm and club notes, and general news. An interesting department this year was the Mail Box, in which appeared articles by a great number of the students. During the past year the Holcad has progressed through the co-operation of staff, faculty, and students. We are looking forward to a brilliant voyage in the year 1923-1924.

The College Bulletin

The Westminster College Bulletin is published quarterly by the Faculty Committee on Publications. It is a very valuable publication and is helpful not only to new students but to old as well. It serves as a helpful guide to new students, for it furnishes detailed information on how you may enter Westminster, the courses of study offered, the expenses, and the college rules and regulations that are to be observed after entrance. It introduces you to the Faculty and the Board of Trustees and gives you a complete student roll. It also tells of the social, religious, and physical activities entered into by the students.

Westminster College Handbook

There is a lonely, lost feeling in the hearts of our Freshmen that only those who have been Freshmen recently or who have very good memories can appreciate. They are strangers and they do not know just how to act. It is so at all schools, but here our Y. M. and Y. W. have had people in charge who remembered when they were in the same bewildered state, so they established the custom of printing hand-books (absolutely truthful) that tell the Freshmen what to do and how to do it. Besides this there is a dictionary of the "lingo" that is spoken; so that the children may know what their elders are talking about, and a list of yells, songs, and the Westminster Hymn. It is the only bit of information in the school which the Freshmen can absolutely believe and they surely do rely on it. Ask the Freshmen if you don't believe us.

Tau Gamma Delta

Prominent among the new organizations which appeared upon the campus during the past year is the journalistic fraternity, the Tau Gamma Delta. Its purpose is to foster the rising interest in journalistic writing and to provide a method by which proficiency in writing may be rewarded. Eligibility for membership comes automatically with the appointment or election to an editorship or managership on either of the student publications. All credit for the conception of the idea which germinated in the organization of this fraternity goes to J. McLeod Smith, editor of the 1922-'23 Holcad. He, in conference with Dr. Garwood, called a meeting of eligible men, at which meeting the fraternity was founded.

It is hoped that in the near future this local fraternity will find it possible to petition one of the standard national fraternities and thus add another attraction to our Alma Mater.

Men's Varsity Debate

Under the pentagonal league Westminster achieved a well-earned victory in 1922. Debating the question "Resolved, that Congress should enact legislation giving the United States Railway Labor Board full power to enforce its decisions," the affirmative team won unanimously over Grove City, and by a two-to-one vote over Thiel; losing the first tilt by a two-to-one vote to Carnegie Tech, the negative rallied and defeated Geneva completely. Thus, Westminster began to feel that she could prove that black is white and white is black.

This year, with four Tau Kappa Alpha men back, the outlook is rosy. Again the pentagonal arrangements have been made; but at the last moment Thiel and Carnegie Tech have found it necessary to withdraw. The question presented is, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a cabinet-parliamentary form of government." In addition to these meetings at home, the team has made ready for a trip to the middle west. There, Westminster, represented by the affirmative team, is meeting Carleton and Beloit Universities, schools whose records are exceptional. The undertaking is great, but with the enthusiasm manifested by both old and new men, we all are looking forward to the usual Westminster victory.

In addition to preparation for the present year, Westminster is a charter member of a new organization. Early in the year, representatives of sixteen colleges and universities formed the "Debating Association of the Colleges of the State of Pennsylvania." Within this organization, in future years, Westminster can compete with the best teams in Pennsylvania for the state championship. This new league makes it possible for the state champion to oppose teams from other states for sectional championships. We consider membership in this organization, which begins functioning in 1924, to be of great importance because questions for debate, technicalities, and general arrangements are provided for the whole membership in a more satisfactory and uniform manner than heretofore. Westminster is indeed fortunate to have taken this forward step.

Men's Debate Squad

Westminster vs. Grove City

Westminster vs. Geneva

Tau Kappa Alpha

The place of debate and oratory in school life has surely been shown when a national fraternity has been founded with the express purpose of recognizing excellence in public speaking, and of developing and promoting interest among the under-graduates of American colleges and universities along these lines. To be a wearer of the T. K. A. key—the symbol of the fraternity—a person must have taken part in at least one inter-collegiate debate, as well have good scholastic standing. Probably few of us at Westminster realize what an honor it is that we have a local chapter of this honorary forensic fraternity. It is indeed a distinction to be a member of the local chapter, and particularly of the Westminster one because of the high merit it has won. The men, who have represented this school, have established an enviable reputation due to the interest they have shown, and the laurels they have won in former years. The future possibilities appear very favorable for a similar standing.

As the maxim puts it: 'the worm will turn'. After a series of heart-breaking reverses at the hands of the Sophomores, the Freshmen vindicated themselves with a vengence. Awe-inspiring Sophomore brawn fell before nimble Freshmen brain.

When the subject for the debate was announced as "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a Cabinet-Parliamentary form of government," quite a good deal of interest and comment sprung up on the campus. How would the new material stand up before the all-wise Sophomore syllogisms? Interest was stimulated by rumors of excellent orators among the Freshmen. And well it might be!

On the eventful evening of January eighteenth, the two teams lined up for the scrimmage. Hall McKinney, Hale Bucher and Paul Riggle upheld the affirmative for the Sophomores, asserting that the United States government had been founded on a misconception; and that the English plan was perfectly adaptable according to the proposed changes. To this the Freshmen negative, including Arthur Wilson, Charles Wallace and Harvey Moore replied. The negative declared the change of American form of government was unwise. Now followed hot and clever rebuttals summing up the whole situation.

A few tense moments of silence, and then the judges' decision was rendered. The vote went to the negative—two to one. The Freshmen had avenged themselves!

Girls' Varsity Debate

Debating is one of the activities in which Westminster girls are deeply interested. The Triangular League between Westminster, Geneva, and Grove City, which was operative last year, has been readopted for the present season. It provides that teams from each of these other colleges shall be met on the forensic platform. The question that has been selected is, "Resolved, that Great Britain and the United States should form an alliance to protect France against invasion." The people who are comprised in the squad are Helen Ewing, Ethel Tracy, Mary Graham, Margaret Reeher, Helen Mickulonic, Hazel Smith, Ruth Hamilton and Dorothy French. Each one of them is taking an active interest in the work; this is probably due to a two-fold motive. In the first place, a careful study of the question affords a comprehensive view of international relationships. But a greater and more animating incentive is the opportunity it produces to win glory and distinction for their Alma Mater. The girls are always willing to devote their untiring efforts in order to achieve this end. Since the teams are thus impelled, it is improbable that they will experience anything less than a very successful season.

Student Council Committee

The Committee in Westminster is four years old, having been organized in 1919 as an outgrowth of the "Pep Movement." Its main object is to serve as a point of contact between the faculty and the student body, while representative students from each of the three upper classes comprise its membership. Since organization, the Committee has passed legislation concerning athletics, besides incorporating the customs and traditions of the college into the constitution of the Upper Class Committee. Although its powers are limited, the Student Council Committee is a step toward student government, and as such should have hearty support.

The government of the women students of Westminster College is vested in the Campus Committee, whose purpose is to maintain college customs and traditions, to govern the conduct of women students, and to promote good relations between faculty and students.

It is composed of seventeen members, representatives of the four classes, elected annually by their respective classes. The officers are elected by the committee.

With the re-organization of the constitution and rules, many misunderstandings have been eliminated and a new working basis has been established.

Inter-Fraternity Club Council

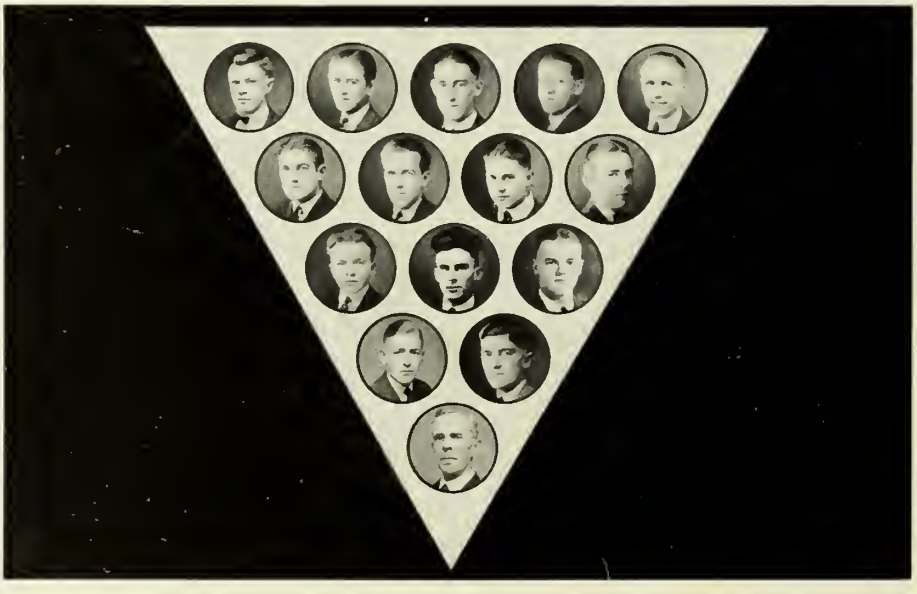
Westminster Campus is necessarily a world in itself in order that all may pursue knowledge to advantage. While on its campus it is only natural that new men should feel more at home in companionship with certain other men. To accommodate and to satisfy these natural desires, fraternities and clubs were organized.

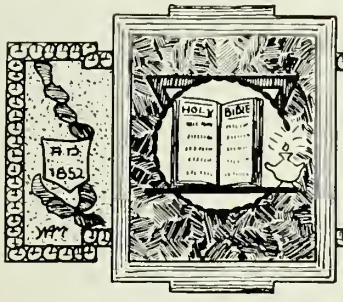
It was then deemed advisable to create a common representative body where all problems relative to their welfare might be settled. To this end an Inter-Fraternity Club Council was organized in the spring of 1921. Its function is to settle all differences, to interpret the will of the college, and in general to promote peaceful relations among the various fraternities and clubs.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. is one of the most influential organizations on the campus. It is a "he man's" organization where the men can come and discuss the problems that they meet in every day life. The "Y" is doing its share in making Westminster, first and foremost, a Christian college.

The actlivities of the "Y" are numerous and varied. During the summer, prospective students are written to, and when these men arrive on the campus in the fall, they are met and helped in getting settled. During the first week of school a get-acquainted party is put on for the men, and later in co-operation with the Y. W. C. A., the "Who's Who" is staged. The two associations also edit the Freshmen Handbook. During the year, men are sent to various Y. M. C. A. conferences and conventions.





Y. W. C. A.

The Young Women's Christian Association is one of the most important organizations on the Westminster campus. At the beginning of school each fall it does a great work in helping to make the Freshmen girls feel at home. When they arrive in New Wilmington they are met by their "Big Sisters" of the Y. W. who help them to register and to get acquainted in their new home.

The Y. W. collaborates with the Y. M. in giving the "Who's Who" party each year shortly after the opening of college. They also give a Christmas party every year, which is enjoyed by all the girls.

Once a week, on Wednesday evening, the Y. W. C. A. holds a regular meeting. The character of the meetings are always varied enough to maintain interest. Sometimes they are given over to a special speaker, but often the hour is devoted to discussion of some interesting problem.

The Y. W. C. A. meets a definite need on the campus that could not be met in any other way. It holds a recognized place among the religious organizations of the college.

The Student Volunteers

The Student Volunteer movement for foreign missions began in 1886. Since then 8140 Volunteers have sailed, answering the challenge, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature". A Student Volunteer is one who has registered "his purpose, if God permit, to be a foreign missionary."

The movement is a recruiting agency, but only sends out missionaries through the church boards. This movement has presented missions to all the students of the United States and Canada. It has spread until now it reaches the students all over the world.

The Watchword—"the Evangelization of the World in this Generation"—will only be realized when Christian students through prayer and consecration acknowledge the sovereign sway of Jesus Christ.

The Lettermen's Organization is gaining in numbers and we are proud to welcome the new members. We sincerely hope that they will do all in their power to protect and uphold the ideals for which the insignia stands. This is becoming one of the largest organizations on the campus and much can be done in an advisory way to better athletic conditions. The organization stands for clean, wholesome athletics and will gain that end and at the same time will place Westminster at the front.

The Cercle Francais

Mary A. Graham - - - - - - - - - - Secretary

The Cercle Francais numbers about thirty-five students in its membership this year. Although it is not as strong as it has been in numbers, any lack is entirely forgotten in the strong interest taken by all the members in the meetings and business of the club.

Its purpose this year, as in former years, is to supplement the classroom study of French, considering questions outside the realm of the classroom, and to make French more than just a three or four hour course taken for language credit. With this purpose in view the meetings take various interesting forms, plays, scenes, dialogues and recitations being given. The meetings, of course, are carried on entirely in French.

Westminster College, although United Presbyterian in burden and control, is interdenominational in service. The College welcomes all earnest young people of whatever denomination of Christian faith.

LOCATION

Westminster is located sixty miles north of Pittsburgh in a village noted for morality and healthfulness, and overlooking one of the most beautiful valleys of the State. Through service over the Pennsylvania Lines and New York Central Railway makes the College easily accessible from all points. A paved road and bus service between New Castle, New Wilmington and Sharon makes Westminster still more accessible to the larger centers of population.

EQUIPMENT

The College Plant is adequate for the accommodation of 400 students. The Administration Building, familiarly known as "Old Main," contains Chapel, twelve class-rooms, four Society halls, Library, Art-Room, and College Offices. It is scholastic in appearance and through recent renovation is adapted to all modern needs.

Science Hall contains three lecture rooms, six laboratories devoted to Chemistry, Physics, and Biology, Museum, photograph gallery, stock rooms and offices. The laboratories are furnished with the latest equipment with a fullness which challenges comparison with the collegiate departments of our best universities.

The College of Music is a building of exceptional beauty and convenience containing thirty-six rooms, embracing studios, practice rooms, libraries, reception parlors and concert hall. Steinway and Mehlin pianos are used by all teachers and new grade practice instruments are furnished all students, no instrument being kept longer than two years.

"The Hillside," a dormitory for young women, excels in beauty and convenience. A large number of rooms are furnished with private bath. The dining-room has been pronounced the most attractive to be found in any institution. About ninety young women can be accommodated.

The New Gymnasium is modern in all its equipment and is among the finest to be found in Pennsylvania Colleges.

FACULTY

Westminster's Faculty is large in proportion to the number of students and hence furnishes opportunity for thorough work and personal interest in students. All departments are in care of university trained teachers. Thoroughness is the watchword of each department.

CURRICULUM

The Curriculum of Westminster is purely collegiate with auxiliary courses in Public Speaking and Music. The courses of College work, Classical and Scientific, prepare for the work of the professional and technical schools, and also fit for High School and College positions. Graduates are accepted on diploma in leading universities, the College now holding membership on the accredited list of the Association of American Universities.

THE COLLEGE OF MUSIC

The College of Music is conducted by a corps of instructors who have had their work under the most eminent and successful masters of Europe and America. The work accomplished is everywhere recognized as of the highest order. No expense or effort is spared in making this department the equal of the best Musical Conservatories.

PHYSICAL CULTURE AND ATHLETICS

The Department of Physical Culture has been created by the addition to the Faculty of a Director of Physical Culture and Athletics. Physical training is required of all students, and all athletic sports are under supervision of the Director of Physical Culture and the respective coaches.

Foot-ball and cross-country running are the fall sports; basket-ball the winter sport; track, base-ball and tennis those of the spring. The Department of Physical Culture, including all athletic activities of the College, is administered by the Athletic Council, representing the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, Students and Alumni.

MORAL IDEALS

Westminster has for her ideal effort the harmonious blending of broad scholarship, pure morality, and an evangelical atmosphere such as will foster reverence for the Bible as the word of God and sympathy with the missionary program of Christ. It is maintained that sane college discipline must demand from college students the same morality which has characterized the Christian homes from which they come, and that under no circumstances should young people who are learning to make a living and a life through the sacrifices of Christian parents and endowments of the Church, be permitted a lower grade of moral conduct than those of their own age who, in the home community, are doing the work of life.

THE COLLEGE YEAR

The College year 1923-24 will open September 20th at 11 A. M. Matriculation and registration September 19th and 20th, 1923. Recitations begin September 21st, 8:15 A. M.
